Hitler Ignores Czechs, Europe Remains Jittery

Fuehrer Leaves European Statesmen Puzzled As to Future Intentions; Denies Intention of Forming Pact With Foreign Powers in Speech Opening Congress.

(By Associated Press)

NURNBERG, Germany — Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler ignored Czechoslovakia in his proclamation today to the 10th annual Nazi congress, disappointing anxious European statesmen who had hoped for an inkling of Germany's intentions in central Europe.

Almost his whole 5,000-word proclamation dealt with inner conditions of Germany, particularly economically, which the fuehrer assured his followers were so healthy that the nation will be without worries for food for years to come."

Through the voice of District Leader Adolf Wagner, who read the fuehrer's proclamation in Congress hall, Hitler repudiated any intention of forming a pact with foreign powers

"I have never had nor have this intention," the chancellor declared.

The statement was cheered thunderously.

Instead, he declared he was offering the people a "greater Germany"—referring to the absorption last March 13 of Austria—and the union of "six and a half million Germans who today spiritually unite here . . . stronger than ever . . . in a great indissoluble community."

Diplomats Disappointed.

The absence of any word on Czechoslovakia undoubtedly was disappointing to the 45 frock-coated foreign diplomats who had accepted Hitler's personal invitation to attend the congress. They were an island in a sea of uniforms in the packed hall.

Among them was Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Berlin. Never before had an American ambassador accepted the invitation to Nurnberg.

Besides his brief denial of any intention of aligning Germany in a pact, the chancellor's only allusions to foreign affairs were an evident reference to Italy's newly-begun anti-Jewish measures and a denunciation of the "international Jewish world enemy."

Hitler linked the "Jewish virus" with the "world pest" of bolshevism.

"More threatening than ever," he said, "the Bolshevist danger of the destruction of nations rises above this world."

With 21 Italian Fascists in the audience, headed by Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, the fuehrer lauded the "mutual spiritual conception" which "leads us more and more humanely together."

He expressed joy that "another great European power . . . shares the same conception and with admirable determination has drawn the most far-reaching conclusions."

Greater Germany, its inner strength and the annexation of Austria provided his main themes.

Germany's house is in order, he declared, and he advised the democracies to follow her example if they wanted to revive world trade.

The proclamation was the formal opening of the congress

Czechs Wait Reaction of Nazis To 'Last Offer' Concessions

(By Associated Press)

PRAGUE—The Czech government anxiously awaited reaction today from two quarters to its sweeping concessions to the German population of the republic.

The first question was, "would this 'last and ultimate offer,' formulated at a 4½-hour cabinet session last night, satisfy the Sudeten German party which in long-winded negotiations has been insisting on a degree of autonomy amounting almost to independence?"

The second question: "How would the Czechs, who have been aroused to nationalistic fervor by the patriotic press, receive the news of a government retreat under German pressure?"

There appeared the possibility that the government had sought to avoid danger from abroad by risking an internal danger.

In quarters close to the government it was contended that Czechoslovakia had sacrificed much at the insistence of her friends and allies.

It was known that both England and France, earnestly striving to avoid war, had urged Prague to make all possible concessions, but Reuters (British news agency) said the concessions included recognition of territorial autonomy for Sudetens, recognition of their full equality in the Czechoslovak state and recognition of the equality of the German language as the official language in the Sudeten area.

Britain Sends 42 Warships to Battle Station in North Sea

(By United Press)

LONDON—Great Britain's bulldogs, the dark gray warships of the home fleet, steamed out into the English channel today to take up their posts in the North sea, their battle station, for the duration of the European emergency.

Forty-two ships, ranging down from the gigantic battleship Nelson with its 33,500 tons of steel and nine 16-inch guns to wasp-like destroyers and submarines, got up steam to ship out to sea from their home ports—Davenport, Portsmouth, Chatham, Sheerness—and cruise leisurely up to the east coast of Scotland and assemble off Rosyth and Invergordon, off the east coast of Scotland.

They will be joined there by 10 or more other ships, now being rushed through the last stages of refitting for a possible war.

The movement of the fleet was regarded generally as Britain's answer to the massing of 1,500,000 soldiers by Germany. France had made her own reply by canceling army leaves, calling up reservists for the Maginot Line forts, and taking secret naval action.

As the home fleet prepared to take its station, Admiral Bruno Brivonesi, commanding the Italian training ships Amerigo Vespucci and Cristoforo Colombo, now at Davenport, received orders to return to Italy at once instead of continuing a European cruise.

There was no concealing the fact that the government thought that the crisis over the Czechoslovak minority dispute was going to get worse. The United Press was informed on good authority that Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany had listened in Berlin while Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister, expressed doubt that Great Britain would fight to support France and that Henderson coldly responded: "Then you are mistaken."

MAKE SECRET MOVES

PARIS —(UNS)— French navy authorities have taken "certain preparatory measures" of a secret nature, it was learned today while troops and reservists poured into the maginet fortification line in answer to the manning of the German Siegfried line of the other side of the frontier.

The popular temper was one of serenity and of determination to accept any challenge that might be offered.

U. S. Holiday Accidents Take 396 Lives

10 INJURED AS CITY, VICINITY ESCAPE TOLL

Philip Myers, Son of Wealthy Ashland Family, Fatally Hurt in Michigan.

TRAFFIC DEATHS HIT 278

Ohio and California Lead Grim Parade; None of Mishaps Here Serious.

Ten persons were injured, none seriously, in and near Mansfield as Richland county escaped the appalling death toll that snuffed out at least 396 lives on highways, at beaches and resorts during the nation's celebration of the Labor day week-end.

As usual death struck hardest on the highways where 278 victims boosted the toll above Labor day last year when 391 persons were killed. Drownings accounted for 44 lives, suicides 18, homicides 11 and miscellaneous fatalities 45.

33 Die In Ohio.

Ohio and California, with 33 deaths each, led the grim parade. Ohio alone had 30 automobile fatalities. There were 32 violent deaths in New York state, 29 in Michigan and 23 in Illinois

The heaviest toll was taken on Ohio highways Friday night and Saturday when 17 died. Eleven victims were recorded Sunday and four yesterday.

At Sheboygan, Mich., today, Philip A. Myers, II, 22, son of Mrs. Guy C. Myers, Center street, Ashland, died in a hospital from a fractured skull suffered in an accident last night near his summer home at Mullet lake.

Was On Vacation.

Details of the accident was not known in Ashland today.

Young Myers, who was vacationing at the lake, was graduated from St. Johns Military academy at Annapolis last June and only recently had given the school a $10,000 scholarship.

Survivors include his mother, a sister, Elizabeth, and an aunt in Mansfield, Mrs. G. C. Endly, 16 West Second street.

Myers had planned to enter the University of Virginia law school this fall. His father, who died four years ago, was identified

Gang Lawyer's Sister Faces Quiz by Hines' Attorney.

NEW YORK—(UP)—James J. Hines' counsel strove today to counteract the effect of a woman's testimony that she carried a $500 check to Hines from the Dutch Schultz lottery gang.

The witness was Mrs. Rose Wendroff, sister of J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the gang's lawyer, and she was cross-examined lengthily by Lloyd Paul Stryker at the outset of the fourth week of Hines' trial on lottery conspiracy charges.

Mrs. Wendroff was Davis' secretary from 1928 to 1933 and Stryker led her through exhaustive questioning about his law business. Mostly she pleaded ignorance or forgetfulness.

Stryker apparently was attempting to impress on the jury that she purported to remember about taking the check to Hines, but couldn't recall other matters.

TURNER SCORES DOUBLE VICTORY

Air Racer Streaks at 283 M. P. H. to Win Thompson Trophy, Set New Record.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—A big guy with a wide, toothy grin has recaptured the world's choicest aviation trophy for the United States at a speed which those foolish visionaries used to write about in the days of the one hoss shay.

Snugly seated in a silver-hued racing plane, Roscoe Turner of Chicago breezed around a 10-mile course for 63½ minutes yesterday to jack up to 283.419 miles an hour the pace for the 300-mile Thompson trophy.

In annexing the final event of the three-day National Air Races, Turner exceeded by 19 miles an hour the pace set by Michael DeTroyat, of France, in the same race at Los Angeles in 1936.

So Turner had double satisfaction. He walloped one of Europe's speed aces and he won the Thompson race for the second time to

YOUTHS BRANDED AS 'DILLINGERS'

Indiana Police Arrest 12 in Series of Robberies.

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U.P.)—A dozen young desperadoes, described by John Taylor, captain of detectives, as "headed in the footsteps of the Dillinger and Brady gangs," were in police custody today.

All had been rounded up since Friday. They range from 14 to 23 and their crimes from petty thievery to armed holdups and sluggings.

"Most of them," Taylor said, "have been in trouble previously. Some have served time in reform schools."

Fort Wayne and Allen county police first arrested a gang of five, all of Van Wert, O., who had been terrorizing filling stations on both side of the Ohio-Indiana border.

KILLED IN RACE

Motorcycle Rider Dies In Crash On Toledo Track.

TOLEDO — (UNS) — One motorcycle rider lay in Perrysburg Community hospital today with serious injuries resulting from a crash that killed another rider.

The accident occurred in a motorcycle race at the Fort Miami track. Archie Sprague, 35, of Indianapolis, suffered fatal injuries when his machine and that of A Hafer, Sturgis, Mich., plunged through a fence. Sturgis was injured.

6,000 In County's Rural and Parochial Schools Back at Studies.

2 BEGAN LAST WEEK

Pupils In City's Public Schools Will Complete Trek Tomorrow.

The trek back to school which started last week in two county rural districts was on in earnest today as nearly half of the 12,000 pupils in Mansfield and Richland county returned to their studies.

More than 4,500 boys and girls in the county rural areas began their new school term this morning, and in Mansfield, the St. Peter's parochial schools started the parade, with the city's public schools due to open Wednesday morning.

6,400 In Public Schools.

Approximately 900 pupils began their new term at the parochial schools today. Tomorrow morning, about 6,400 boys and girls will give up their vacation sports for textbooks in the city's 13 public schools.

The Lexington and Union rural schools opened last Thursday and Friday. Shelby school will not start the new term until next Monday because of repair work in the buildings.

In most cases, however, the first day of school was to be only a brief prelude to the regular schedule, with pupils receiving their assignments in the morning and dismissal at noon.

Increase Expected.

Enrollment in the city and country schools was expected to show a slight increase, and nearly 600 first graders will start their school career in Mansfield tomorrow.

Under a program inaugurated last year, all pupils in Mansfield public schools will receive free textbooks. And for the first time all of the boys and girls attending the city's public schools must be vaccinated or show immunity from smallpox.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today warned motorists to use special precautions in driving in school areas.

The schoolboy patrol has not been organized to guard the 28 school crossings in the city, he said, although a force of 50 boy patrolmen will be on duty at the more dangerous crossings tomorrow to guard against accidents.

In the rural schools a new

COUNT KILLED

Injuries, Rare Blood Disease Fatal to Covadonga.

(Picture On Page 3.)

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—The Count of Covadonga, 31, eldest son of former King Alfonso of Spain, bled to death today from cuts about the head suffered in an automobile accident.

The injuries in themselves were not severe but the count's condition was complicated by hemophila, the hereditary disease of the Battenberg's which causes excessive bleeding and prevents the blood from coagulating normally.

The former heir to the throne of Spain died in a hospital about nine hours after the accident, in which his companion and driver of the car was a night club cigaret girl, Miss Mildred Gaydon, 25. They have been friendly for some time.

Miss Gaydon suffered slight chest injuries.

KIDNAP VICTIM SAVED BY 'FEAR'

Prober Says Captor of Mrs. Meeks Failed to Carry Out Death Orders.

(By United Press)

MARYSVILLE, Cal.—The man charged by "the boss" to kill Mrs. William R. Meeks and throw her body into the Bear river, failed to carry out his instructions only because he was afraid to be implicated in a murder, District Attorney Lloyd Hewitt believed today.

Even his obvious fear of "the boss," who apparently planned the kidnaping of Mrs. Meeks and had his associates carry out his scheme, did not keep Mrs. Meeks' guard from permitting her to go free rather than face capture and perhaps be sentenced to death.

"There's been too much publicity," the 55-year-old woman's guard told her late Saturday, almost 48 hours after she was forced from her home. "The boss sent word for me to blow your brains out and throw you into the river."

The man offered no reason to Mrs. Meeks as to why he didn't follow instructions. Hewitt said the only explanation was that he feared a murder charge even worse than that of kidnaping, although both carry a possible death penalty.

In their search for the three men who held Mrs. Meeks prisoner for 56 hours, it was "the boss" about whom officers knew least. He did not enter the house when his two associates bound and gagged Meeks and his wife, and if he was around the secluded thicket where Mrs. Meeks was hidden he did not speak directly to her.

Registration of Foreign Agents Ordered By U. S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government ordered today that all agents of foreign governments register with the state department.

Under a law enacted at the last session of congress and effective today, the state department prepared regulations governing the information which must be submitted.

The law exempts only diplomatic and consular officers and those persons 'performing only private, non-political, financial, mercantile or other activities in furtherance of the bona fide trade or commerce" of foreign nations.

The act was designed to give this country better control over the activities of propaganda agents and other representatives, including Americans paid by other nations, even though indirectly.

Strands of Hair Clutched by Child, 8, Slaying Clue.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—(UNS)—Strands of hair clenched in the hands of 8-year-old Barbara Driscoll, marks on her throat and fingerprints of a bloodstained rock used to crush her skull were compared by authorities today with the hair and fingerprints of a paroled Maine ex-convict arrested for questioning in connection with the brutal slaying.

After hours of grilling by police, the suspect whose name was withheld, remained steadfast in his denial he had slain the child and wedged her body beneath a railroad storage shed.

Dr. Timothy Leary, Boston medical examiner who came here to assist Portsmouth medical referee Fred S. Gray, returned to Boston with the girl's vital organs and the hair samples to make further examinations.

FEDERAL BOARD PROCEEDS

Investigation Opens Despite Failure of State to Reply to U. S. Charges.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Arthur J. Altmyer said today the failure of Ohio officials to appear before the social security board to answer charges of maladministration of the state's old age pension program was "an admission of the truth of the charges."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Social security board officials said they understood Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the Ohio welfare department's division of aid for the aged, would not appear today to answer board charges that the state had failed to meet federal requirements in the administration of its old age pension program.

The board proceeded to open a scheduled hearing, however, officials explaining the state would not be cut off from further federal grants until state officials are formally offered a chance to appear.

Davey Gave Order, Claim.

A board representative said it was understood Berrodin had arrived in the city in time for the hearing, but would not appear because of orders from Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio.

Berrodin was summoned to answer detailed charges of "substantial failure" in administration of the system to comply with the social security act.

Board investigators had asserted that many on the administrative staff were employed "either in violation or circumvention of the civil service laws" of the state, that accurate statistical reports have not been submitted, that there is no central place with complete records, and that blanket increases in grants have been made "without due consideration of the needs of individual recipients." They also said there had been discrimination and delay in treatment of applicants.

Ordered Changes.

The charges were made after five months' investigation. In ordering the hearing, the board said that when it approved the state's program in August a year ago it did so in the expectation that certain changes in administrative procedure would be made.

In two other states, Illinois and Oklahoma, the board has temporarily suspended grants after hearing charges of inefficient administration.

The board also had charged Berrodin had attempted to influence those receiving old age assistance to support Governor Davey in his campaign for renomination on the Democratic ticket.

Petitions Bearing 642 Names Filed For Option Vote

A local option vote on the sale of beer and intoxicating liquor in Springfield township, west of Mansfield, was virtually assured today with the filing of petitions bearing 642 names with the county board of elections.

The petitions, which seek a vote on the liquor issue at the Nov. 8 election, were filed by J. T. Shaffer, Park avenue west road, who heads a committee of five, organized to combat the open sale of intoxicants.

The petitions contained more than 200 signatures over the required number, board of election officials said. They said there was little doubt that enough signatures were legal to make the petitions valid.

Only 131 names are needed to obtain a vote on the sale of intoxicants by the glass, while 306 are required in the township to put the beer sale issue before the voters. The numbers represent 15 and 35 per cent, respectively, of the total vote cast for governor in the township at the last general election.

Call for Unity in Labor Ranks As City Marks Holiday Quietly

A united organization to fight the laboring man's battles was urged yesterday afternoon by Elmer O. Fahlhaber, Columbus, secretary of Labor's Non-Partisan league, and Mayor Claude M. Hunter in Labor day talks at North Lake park.

Fahlhaber and Mayor Hunter were the principal speakers on a program sponsored by the Mansfield Industrial council. Approximately 1,000 persons attended the celebration at the park as the city observed one of its quietest Labor days in recent years.

"We want unity of all labor groups, and we must stand united if we hope to combat the forces that are working against the interests of the working man," Fahlhaber said.

He urged laboring groups to work toward the idea of bringing all factions of organized labor together under one head.

"There is strength in unity, and I hope to see the day when labor has patched up its differences and is organized under one great head," Mayor Hunter said He praised the co-operative spirit of Mansfield labor groups in planning the Labod day celebration.

Praising President Roosevelt's "purge" move, Fahlhaber said "the president has every right to point out the traitors in the Democratic party and ask voters to defeat

Orders Ohio's Legislators to Return 'Mileage Fees'

COURT RULING BARS PAY FOR FUTURE 'TRIPS'

Judge Holds Payments for Imaginary Expense Illegal, Orders Rebates.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Common Pleas Judge John R. King ruled in a two-part decision today that members of the Ohio legislature cannot collect mileage allowances from the state for imaginary trips between their homes and Columbus.

The decision was given in a suit brought by Arnett Harbage, West Jefferson farmer who has been dubbed "the watchdog of the state treasury" because of his taxpayer's suits and his utterances against legislative expenditures.

The suit covered the period from July 22 to Dec. 8, 1936, when the legislature was not in session.

In the first part of the decision, Judge King ordered State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to recover $5,557 paid to state senators for such imaginary trips.

Order Made Permanent.

In the second part, he issued a permanent injunction restraining the auditor from paying claims, totaling $21,507, filed by members of the house of representatives for similar mileage allowances.

When the legislators meet on Dec. 8 they pretended it was July 22 and fixed the journals to read that they had met regularly in the interim, according to the suit.

This journal fixing was gone through with the purpose of permitting members to receive mileage fees ranging from $33.12 for a Fairfield county representative to $319 for a member from Ashtabula county.

Senators had collected their allowances before Harbage brought his action. Common Pleas Judge Cecil J. Randall issued a temporary order in January, 1937, stopping payment to house members. Judge King's decision today made the order permanent as well as ordering recovery of the money from the senators.

Judge King's decision, like the opinions of two former attorney generals, held that legislators are entitled to mileage allowances to and from their homes only when the general assembly is in session and transacting business.

Ashland Writer Off To Sicily To Spend 2 Months

Joseph Bonfiglio, staff correspondent for The News-Journal in Ashland, left today for New York City and tomorrow will sail for Palermo, Sicily, where he expects to remain for two months visiting relatives.

It will be Bonfiglio's second visit to his parents' native home. He was born in Upper Sandusky in 1912 and a year later was taken back to the Italian island. As the father, Joseph Bonfiglio, sr., stepped on his native shore for a short visit he was conscripted into the Italian army and the family did not return to America until 1921. The Bonfiglios came to Ashland Sept. 21, 1921.

The younger Bonfiglio, a member of the Ohio National Guard, expects to visit in Italy during his stay abroad.

Up and Down THE STREET

Thomas and Philip Carroll, jr., and their sister, Rita, 77 West Second street, were telling their friends today about a visit with Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, at his famous restaurant in New York. Dining with their uncle who is a friend of the Dempseys, the trio of Mansfielders received special attention from Dempsey after he learned they were in the restaurant. He autographed menus for them and visited with them for several minutes. The Carroll family returned yesterday from a two weeks' vacation in the east.

From behind trees and well back of the regular gallery, Ralph E. Moorhead peered yesterday at a golf match that as far as he was concerned, was the most important he ever watched. The contest was the finals of the Westbrook Country club tournament in which his 17-year-old son, Bob, defeated Paul Auxter in one of the most spectacular matches played on the course in years. Moorhead feared his presence in the gallery might unnerve his son so he stayed out of sight and missed much of the play. But he was quite satisfied with the outcome!

When students return to Country Day school tomorrow they will find several changes, but the one that will interest them most is the new playground equipment in the big yard to the south of the building. This was purchased by funds raised by the youngsters themselves through their annual fair last June. A new arts and crafts room has been added and a system of indirect lighting installed in all of the rooms.

While nationally famous fliers were stunting for the crowds at the National Air Races in Cleveland yesterday, one Mansfield airman made his first solo flight, and if his watchers were infinitely less in number than those at the Cleveland meet, they were none the less enthusiastic. Dr. Frank Maxwell made his first "solo" yesterday at Mansfield airport with two perfect landings, while his wife and daughter, Judy, and his instructor, J. R. "Bud" Harrington, watched from the ground. Dr. Myron S. Reed, another of Mansfield's flying medicos, will solo within a few days, as will Dr. M. C. Oakes, of Lexington.

3RD CANDIDATE

M. H. Myers, Independent, to Seek Commissioner Post.

Mark H. Myers, Springmill, today announced his candidacy for Richland county commissioner on an independent ticket.

An employe of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company for the past 15 years, Myers is a member of the United Rubber Workers of America, the Farm Bureau and grange. He is 52 years old.

He said his nominating petitions, bearing 450 names, probably would be filed today. Only 325 signatures are needed on the petitions.

BRICKER TAKES UP 'RED' ISSUE

Repeats Davey's Charge That Sawyer Receives Backing From Communists.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A favorite theme of Gov. Martin L. Davey's unsuccessful primary race, the issue of Communist political activities through CIO leaders was virtually assured today of top billing in Ohio's fall election campaign.

John W. Bricker, Republican gubernatorial candidate, in a radio address last night struck out for labor's votes by charging that the Communist party engineered the CIO-dominated Labor's Non-Partisan league support of Charles Sawyer, Bricker's Democratic opponent.

Bricker said CIO leaders repeatedly called Sawyer their candidate for governor, commenting: "He has not denied it and he cannot."

In substantially similar language, Governor Davey frequently raised the CIO-Communist issue against Sawyer during the primary campaign.

Republican strategists, noting the heavy primary vote for Davey in rural areas where opposition to the CIO was reputedly strongest, were credited with promptly reinjecting the issue to counteract Sawyer's campaign plans in the farm territory.

Sawyer's advisors acknowledged after the August 9 primary that swinging the rural vote to their candidate would be an important factor in their hopes for success in November.

ORANGE NATIVE TAKEN BY DEATH

Martin M. Boger, 76, Had Suffered Two Strokes.

ASHLAND—Martin M. Boger, 76, a native of Orange township, died at his home here early Monday morning following two strokes he suffered Saturday and Monday.

Born in Orange township, Mr. Boger had lived in Ashland nearly all his life. He was a farmer, and later worked for the Cleveland Southwestern railroad, and the Lorain, Ashland and Southern railroad. He was a member of the Third Street Brethren church, and the Maccabee lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mary; two sons, Charles and Frank both of Ashland; a daughter, Mrs. Mina Dilgard of Mansfield; an adopted son in New York, and seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The body was removed to the Shaw funeral home where it will remain until 1 p. m. Wednesday, when it will be taken to the Brethren church where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Charles H. Deardroff, pastor of the Brethren church, will officiate, and burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

COSHOCTON—(U.P.)—The plant of the Meredith Canvas Specialty company, an advertising firm, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Firemen said the blaze started from a defective wire in a garage.

HUMBLE AND GREAT PASS BIER OF PATRICK CARDINAL HAYES

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—On a catafalque in front of a portrait of Pope Pius XI the body of Patrick Cardinal Hayes lay in state today while countless thousands of poor and rich, humble and great passed with bowed heads in a final silent tribute to the orphan boy who became a prince of the Roman Catholic church.

As soon as doors to the cardinal's residence, adjoining St. Patrick's cathedral to which the body will be removed late today, were opened a solemn procession of mourners started an endless march past the bier around which stood a guard of honor. Creed and race were forgotten.

Men, women and children came with tears from the shadowed and twisting slums of New York's lower east side, birthplace of the cardinal who died Saturday night in his sleep at the age of 70. They came with reverence and grief from the storied homes of the wealthy and from the comfortable homes of the middle class to mourn the death of a man whose nobility and kindliness earned him the love of all classes and all creeds.

Late today the body of the beloved cardinal will be taken to St. Patrick's for the last time. Before it is removed from his home, it will be arrayed in his mass vestments. These will include his purple chasuble, covered with a white linen rochet, long gloves and buskins, and on his head will be a white mitre, the hat of a bishop.

The cardinal's biretta, or red hat, will repose at the foot of the casket on the catafalque. From the crown of this circular headpiece, almost two feet in diameter stretch 21 red tassels, five feet long. The hat which Cardinal Hayes wore only once will be suspended close to the ceiling of St. Patrick's alongside the hats of his predecessors.

A five-day period of mourning will be climaxed Friday morning with a pontifical mass of requiem to be followed by the placing of Cardinal Hayes' body in a crypt under St. Patrick's main altar.

FUNERAL HERE

Mrs. Caroline Moore Survived by 61 Grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Moore, 82, a former resident of Mansfield who died at the home of her son, C. C. Moore, Lucas, Sunday after a brief illness, will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 2 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. Carl Driscoll of the St. Paul's Lutheran church of Lucas officiating. Burial will be in the Shelby cemetery.

Residing in Shenandoah for more than 40 years before coming to Mansfield, Mrs. Moore was born in West Virginia, April 20, 1856. She was affilated with the Shenandoah Christian church and was the last member of her family.

Survivng are three sons, John of Wyandotte, Mich., Judson of East Mansfield and Clifford; three daughters, Mrs. Lucy Myers of Mansfield, Mrs. Neota Young of Shenandoah and Mrs. Bessie Bloom of Lucas, 31 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

LAFF-A-DAY

TYDINGS' AIDS SAY PRESIDENT SOFTENS PURGE

Praise Goes to New Dealer as Administration Fights Senator's Return.

(By Associated Press)

DENTON, Md. — Now that President Roosevelt has come and gone, the Tydings-Lewis campaign on Maryland's eastern shore is reverting to cracker-box discussions.

The farmers and oystermen can debate until the primaries next Monday the President's appeal for Democrats to nominate Rep. David J. Lewis to the seat of Sen. Millard E. Tydings.

In a sense, Mr. Roosevelt's Labor day address pleased both factions. The Lewis followers were gratified by the president's praise of their champion—"a man who not only has seen visions but has lived to make his dreams come true."

In the Tydings camp, there was surprise and frank jubilation that Mr. Roosevelt did not denounce the senator by name. To be sure, he made unmistakable references about men pretending to be either liberal or conservatives and acting like the other. But the Tydings people termed the speech mild compared with Mr. Roosevelt's outright denunciation in Georgia of Sen. Walter F. George, another "conservative" Democrat.

Hold Fourth of Vote.

It was evident that the eastern shore families who formed the audience were there to hear about the senatorial campaign. They have nearly one-quarter of the voice in its outcome, and they are conscious of their strategic position.

Just before the speech was over, every father in the crowd—even those wearing Tydings buttons—held up freshly-scrubbed babies for a last look at Mr. Roosevelt.

Progress, he said at one point, "comes from the rank and file of our citizens, and through the representatives of their free choice—representative willing to co-operate, to get things done in the true spirit of 'give and take'—not representatives who seek every plausible excuse for blocking action."

Earlier in the speech he had referred to liberals and conservatives and added: "Any man—any political party— has the right to be honestly one or the other. But the nation can not stand for the confusion of having him pretend to be one and act like the other."

READY FOR FAIR

Shelby Opens Community Exposition Tomorrow.

SHELBY — Several thousand persons are expected in Shelby when the annual Community Street Fair opens for four days, beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing until Saturday night, fair officials announced today.

Held for the past four years, the fair attracts nightly about 6,000 persons to the downtown district where Main street has been roped off for rides, concessions and shows. Farm, home-craft and industrial exhibits will be located in tents along the street.

Free acts will be given on special platforms constructed on the street by the Shelby Better Business club, co-sponsors of the event. The Richland County Horse Breeders association, co-operating with fair officials, will sponsor a draft colt show Saturday. Other civic, patriotic and farm organizations will assist with the fair's exhibits.

FAIR ENOUGH!

We Ought to Stop Being Suckers By Trying to Buy Other Lands' Friendship

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—My foreign policy is a sharp reversal of the pathetic effort of this country and its people to buy the friendship and respect of others by pretending to be unaware of insults from abroad and treacherous imposition on the hospitality of our own house.

My foreign policy is "To hell with them!"

It is unimportant whether the Russians, Germans, Italians, French, British, Irish or Mexicans like us. The test should be, "Do we like them?" and they should now be allowed to take their turn at the patient and rather humbling work of ingratiation.

To be realistic, we have no friends. However painful the blow may be to the sentimental feelings of some Americans of German or Italian origin or stock, the German and Italian governments hate this country and show their ill will constantly. The French, at heart, like us no better, as they have shown in many demonstrations of feeling about the war debt, and the British gave us the name of Uncle Shylock by way of proving that their friendship for their lost province bore a price tag.

So it is a good idea to avoid crushes and to remember that the instant any apparent friendship between this country and any other is placed under pressure of conflict of interest it cracks.

It is undignified and its creates no respect for the Americans that we are constantly making allowances for the disturbed national state of mind of this or that foreign land in smiling away impositions on this country's patience and manners. If Italy, for example, is as highly cultured and civilized as she claims to be, why should the United States, that uncouth nation of gangsters, constantly be called upon to excuse her gratuitous indecencies which affront civilization itself?

* * *

I know of no offical campaign by this country, save during the war, and then only against the enemy nations, to insult any other people before the world or create disorder within their borders.

We have sent no official or confidential agents to raise organized hell in Russia, Germany or Italy, but all three governments have boldly traduced us and interfered with our domestic peace by organizing Communist, Nazi and Fascist bands to conspire against the domestic health of a nation already distressed by its own ills.

The record of American good works for other countries in distress is rich in gifts and deeds, but aside from the single gesture of the British admiral who stood off the Germans at Manila bay and ran up the signal to Admiral Dewey, "These Germans have rotten sea manners," there has been no return favor.

And it gets tiresome to be told over and over of Italy's great gifts to the United States, because the Italian immigrants who contributed so much to the material and aesthetic life of this nation were not sent by the Italian nation: They were fugitives from dreadful economic and social conditions in that beloved Italy.

* * *

Italy had no intention to do the United States a good turn, and if she had any thought at all in the matter it was to get rid of a lot of people whom her highly civilized and cultured aristocrats regarded as cattle. And it were strange if any Americans of Sicilian origin or stock felt any love for Italy, because to this very day, under Mussolini, as any observant traveler can testify, the Italians of the mainland pronounce the word "Siciliano" with a note of loathing, as a Mexican says "Gringo" or Americans, in other days, said "Greaser."

The United States has put in 20 years trying to placate other peoples by gifts of money and help and by patient allowances, and the net result is they take us for the saps that we undoubtedly are.

* * *

Did any foreign country offer to dust this country off and rehabilitate the devastated south after the Civil war? Did any of them offer so much as a yard of spaghetti or an inch of liverwurst or even a kind word when our Ohio river slopped all over ten states a coupie of years ago?

So I propose a special flag for our foreign service to be flown above every embassy, ministry and consulate, with the motto, "Now You Chase Me."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The movies are tough on marriages, but they're just as hard on Lovers' Quarrels. The screen, the old meanie, has no time to waste on its puppets' Deeper Emotions.

Today, for instance, I saw the ashes of romance fanned cruelly for the amusement of the masses. I saw two presumably broken young hearts tormented because "the Show Must Go On. Nobody, by the way, has ever explained to my satisfaction just WHY the show must go on, but we'll let that pass for the moment.

Priscilla Lane and Wayne Morris — you've heard? — decided weeks ago that they were not made for each other after all.

What matter? Their roles in "Brother Rat" called for love. And kisses.

They did the kiss scenes today—a case of do-or-die for dear old Warner's.

As Director William Keighley warned the pair, "This is a trouper's job for both of you and personal inclinations don't count.... Just act the parts and forget everything else...."

They obeyed orders. They kissed—through much of the morning, again in the afternoon after lunch. And to these eyes it looked very realistic, very tender, very touching. But it was, of course, only acting.

Said Priscilla afterward, "It just HAD to be convincing—it's a very important scene in the story."

Said Keighley, "It WAS convincing, I think."

Mr. Morris, scowling, said something about the toughness of being in love and called for a cold drink. He didn't specify whether he was speaking in character—or out.

You can see how it is, though. How long can a good difference of opinion last when you HAVE to kiss the girl?

Where's the Profit?

The most amazing things come to this desk. Like this bulletin from the Max Factor-y:

"Spencer Tracy has Hollywood's perfect photogenic face! He alone of all movie actors and actresses has that subtle quality of complexion and feature which enables him to be photographed sharply and cleanly without the aid of make-up highlighting."

It seems—I read on breathlessly—that Betty Grable rates highest among the gals (figuring 88 per cent on Max's Photogene Chart, whatever that is) but even she can't touch Tyrone Power's 94 or Gary Cooper's 93. (Tyrone and Gary ARE beautiful, aren't they?) But when it comes to figures (curves, not mathematical) the ladies do all right. Danielle Darrieux, and again Betty Grable, have the finest figgers for the camera, just eight points short of perfect.

Modest Bette.

Bette Davis has found a role she'd like to play, but she won't even consider it. A script on the life of Lily Langtry, the "Jersey lily" of the mauve decade, has caught her eye.

"It's a great opportunity," she said ruefully, "but not for me."

And why not? "Lily Langtry was a great beauty and—well, I'm not."

And that, boys and girls, is a sample of good sense you don't often run across in these parts where every third girl thinks all she needs is a glammer make-up to play Helen of Troy.

JANET ZIMMERMAN MARRIED AT CHURCH

Mansfield Girl Becomes Bride of Gordon Lysinger at South Main Evangelical Church Sunday Afternoon.

MISS JANET ELEANOR ZIMMERMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy J. Zimmerman, 484 South Diamond street, and Gordon Lysinger, of Detroit, were married in a pretty wedding setting at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the South Main Evangelical church. Rev. C. L. Kern, officiated.

The church was decorated conventionally, with palms and ferns, baskets and tall vases of gladioli, asters and dahlias in fall colors, and two seven-branch candelabra.

Before the ceremony, and during the services the was a program of nuptial music, with Miss Pauline Statler, organist, and Miss Dorothy Gannoway soloist presenting it. Before the ceremony Miss Statler played "Indian Love Call," Schubert's "Serenade," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and a Brahm's waltz. Miss Gannoway sang "Amour, Toujours, L'Amour," "Oh, Promise Me," and "Because." "I Love You Truly" was played softly during the ceremony, and the two conventional bridal numbers were used for the processional and recessional.

Miss Zimmerman entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white satin, with a small train, a fitted bodice with Peter Pan collar and long tight, button-trimmed sleeves. She carried a Colonial bouquet of gardenias, lily-of-the-valley, and white larkspur. Her two-tiered veil was held in place with gardenias.

Both her matron of honor Mrs. Raymond Beal, and her bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn M. Murphy, wore dresses of taffeta, one of rach and the other of turquois, and trimmed in Russian violet. Both were made with dirndl skirts, with belted effect, and short puff sleeves. The skirts fell into short trains. With these they wore doll hats in violet velvet and illusion, and both wore violet accessories. They carried Colonial bouquets of asters, poms rose and buddleia, tied with ribbons to match the gowns.

After the ceremony there was a reception for 50 guests and the bridal party at the Zimmerman home. The bride's table was arranged with a large white wedding cake, silver candelabra with white candles and garden flowers.

After the reception, the couple left on a short wedding trip before going to Detroit. They will be at home at 3094 Lincoln avenue. The bride has been employed in the office of the Ohio Brass company, while the bridegroom is associated with the Ford Motor company of Detroit.

Recent Bride Given Shower

A miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Wesley Stone, the former Gertrude McLaughlin, was given Saturday night by the Misses Bertha Liebhart and Vivian McLaughlin at the latter's home in Coolridge Heights.

The evening was spent socially at cards, with prizes awarded to Mrs. Burdell Blaney and Miss Elsie France, which they in turn presented to the honoree.

A two-course luncheon was served at a long table where covers were laid for 14. An attractive flower arrangement of pink verbenas, scabiosa and pompoms centered the table, while the candles were in original holders made of pink and white straw flowers.

Mrs. Stone, a recent bride, received a number of attractive gifts.

Mansfield Couple Married At Open Church Ceremony

OPEN church was observed for the wedding of Miss Ellen Riemenschneider and Albert Howard Saturday evening at Grace Gospel Tabernacle where Rev. H. E. Tropf read the services.

Miss Riemenschneider is the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Riemenschneider 670 West Third street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Howard, Athens, O. About 300 friends witnessed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with greens, gladioli and candles. The bride's gown was of white mussoline de soi over white taffeta and she wore a circlet of small white flowers in her hair. Her bouquet was of gardenias. Miss Vivian Ost, her maid of honor, wore powder blue lace and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Henry Howard, brother of the bridegroom, served as his best man, and the ring bearer was the small nephew of the bride, Bruce Riemenschneider.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception for the members of the two immediate families and the bridal party was held at the home of the bride. After a short motor trip the couple will be at home at 257½ Marion avenue. The bridegroom is employed at the Isaly Dairy company.

Adviser Gives Answers To Readers

BEATRICE FAIRFAX LETTERS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Through jealousy, I lost my first husband. I was always accusing him of being too friendly with other women, and he told me he might as well have the game as the name. So he gave me my divorce, and I have never really been able to forget him.

I married again, a man a good deal older than myself, because I thought there would be less cause for suffering from this besetting sin of mine. But I couldn't help it. He had been married before, and I was jealous of his grown children, none of whom lived with us.

I was jealous of his golf game, his card club, his men friends, the books he read. I wanted him to be with me whenever he was not at his office, and I wanted his assurance there was no one else in the world but me. After four years of mariage, he asked me if I would not like my freedom, as he thought we would be happier apart. Since that time he has made his home with his older daughter, who is married. I am truly unhappy. Can anything be done for this malignant type of jealousy?

MAYBELLE

Perhaps a psychiatrist might be able to help you, and bring from the depths of your sub-conscious mind the reason why an intelligent woman should deliberately torture herself and those she loves with such abnormal possessiveness. There may have been some influence in your childhood—a broken home, parents accusing each other of infidelities—which has brought about these groundless fears.

Unless you're able to conquer your abnormal jealousy, I certainly would not advise you to try to become reconciled with your husband. It would mean only unhappiness for you both.

Choose Your Friends.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a young girl just out of high school, and I care a good deal for a certain boy who seems to like me. But my friends say he's not the right sort of person for me to go with. Though I must say he has always treated me like a gentleman and never tried to get fresh.

We've had several dates, and have just gone in for "good, clean fun." But these busy bodies are always trying to stir up something. Should I give him up?

MARIETTA.

You tell me this boy has always treated you in a gentlemanly manner whenever you've had a date with him. Then, why should you consider giving him up at the suggestion of friends, who may be jealous? If he should get "fresh," as you say, that will be time enough to drop him. This will also answer "Thoughtful."

Movie Good For All.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married ten years. I'm 42 years of age and have tried to be a good husband and father. I know that my wife's well-planned economies helped to buy our home, and that she is one of the best mothers in these United States. There's just one thing that we wrangle about—the movies.

She claims that she does all the housework, that she should go to the movies at least once a week, as she hasn't time during the day to keep up with her friends or belong to any organizations. But, when I get home from my work I hate to take the car out of the garage again that day. I like to read and smoke. But my wife holds out for the movies once a week. For whom do you cast your vote?

ANTI-MOVIE.

My vote is cast unqualifiedly for your wife's outing one evening a week. And I suggest that you treat her to some refreshment on the way home. If you and your "Missus" could swap jobs for a week, you'd find hers is the harder. If every dog should have his day, every hardworking wife is entitled to a movie once a week. What do my readers think about this? We'll be glad to print some of your answers.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 7.

The astral indications are for a rather sudden and precipitate move or journey on this day, which may not have a very happy reaction on the state of mind. The upheaval may not be a welcome one and may have devastating results.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden upheaval or a quite unforeseen journey that may have a disruptive influence on the general state of affairs. There may be a surprising turn in money matters, with some opening for loss through loans, but with an upturn in property values or a lagging investment. Elders and friends may have influence. Cultivate them.

A child born on this day may be the adventurous or romantic type, with leanings toward the occult and ancient studies. It may attract friends among the elderly, although it may be considered eccentric and difficult.

Too Much Leg In Hose? Try These

By MME. QUI VIVE

Though a girl may love the water as does a fish, she's not happy in a bathing suit if her legs are bulky. When playing on the beach she is consumed with self-consciousness, wishes with all her soul that a surgeon might carve down her fatted calves. Oh! to be a mermaid, have a fish tail instead of trotters! That must be fun.

The idea of going through a reducing routine fills her with despair. It should not. If she will join a gym class, follow the instructions of a teacher of physical education she can shake off poundage right merrily, with no chance of impairment of health. She will need to expend a little time each day, she must mind her groceries; more than anything else, she must cultivate a will to win. The battle is worth it. A pretty figure is as charming as a pretty face.

Strong, healthy, active muscles and fat are not friendly. When muscles are firm, fat can't stick to them. Where there is an overpadding of adipose tissues, muscles are soft and flaccid. Exercise makes muscles strong, burns up human suet. The fact that fat is present shows that the body has more fuel than it needs, so it stores it away for a hungry day.

There's a long list of reducing exercise. Nice to try different ones; they'll keep you interested, offer variety.

Try the goose step. Place your hands on your hips, pull up your breast bone, draw in your tummy, march. Lift the foot high, as high as you can can. Keep on your toes. If you are much overweight you may find this difficult. But what's work or a tumble in the great and glorious cause of beauty?

Get a jumping rope! Jump for three minutes night and morning by the clock. Every half minute pause, take three deep breaths. Jumping with one foot brings results more quickly than jumping with both; there is a heavier burden for the muscles of the legs to bear.

Sit on a low stool, cross your knees, swing the uppermost foot in a wide high circle. This brings into action the fibers of the calves. You won't be able to do that long. The muscles will ache, which proves they have been lazy, have gone slack.

Don't be a slacker about dieting. Cut down on fat-forming foods—sweets, fats and starches. You will need some of these because they are energy-creating foods. You have been getting too much of them, more than the system requires.

Now that skirts are shorter it is a tragedy to have stockings too full of legs.

The exercises suggested will also reduce hips and thighs.

Lamb chops are delicious if dipped in lemon juice just before broiling.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I won't take you on," I said with a laugh in answer to Lillian's proffered wager that the shrilling of the telephone meant tidings of Philip Veritzen.

"You'd better not," she said as we left the study and came into the library. "Katie is giving tongue already as she always does when something unusually important is happening."

And, indeed, from the corridor outside there came the quick patter of feet and Katie's voice in shrill, excited summons.

"Meesis Graham! Oh! Meesis Graham! Coom qveeck by telephone already vunst!"

"She'll wake the dead!" Lillian muttered, "to say nothing of our nervous Olga."

"I'd talk to him, and save you the ordeal," Lillian said softly as we reached the instrument, "but there is no use his finding out yet that we're here. And—don't admit anything over the telephone.

"That is something which isn't done," I whispered back with a wintry smile, and then, bracing myself for the ordeal, I picked up the receiver from the telephone stand.

Senses His Anger.

"Good evening, Mr. Veritzen. Katie said you wished to speak to me."

"Ah! Good evening, Mrs. Graham," he said with the outward meticulous, formal courtesy which is his. But beneath the veneer, I could detect the metallic undertone, and knew that his temper was straining at the leash.

"Something very upsetting has happened," he went on—hurriedly for him—"and I am anxious to know if you can give me any information about it. Are the queen and the princess with you?"

"Goodness!" I said with a schoolgirl giggle. "How exciting I don't even know any such high-sounding people, and if I did"—I made my voice suddenly sober and purposeful—"I certainly wouldn't mention them over a public telephone. It's not respectful—nor yet safe."

It was a long second before he answered me.

"I agree with you," he said at last, lightly, and giving the air of a jest to our colloquy. "But I am afraid I must trespass on your courtesy a little later in the evening. Noel and I have just arrived at the airport about 20 miles from your home, and we are motoring over as fast as possible.

"My dear Mr. Veritzen!" I said airily. "How could any request of yours inconvenience us? My husband and I will be only too glad to welcome you to the farm, and do anything we can for you."

"Thank you," he said with elaborate courtesy. Then his voice sharpened.

"Is Mary with you at the farm?" he asked.

"Mary!" I repeated in simulated astonishment. "Oh! no indeed. Mary is at the hotel working at her role with such diligence that she wouldn't take an hour off, much less time enough to come out to the farm."

"Ah! Very commendable, I am sure," he said dryly. "But—who is with her?" His voice was sharp again.

"A most adequate chaperone," I told him crisply. "You remember, I told you about her over the telephone. Miss Whitlock, a wonderful trained nurse, and a mature, highly-sensible person.

"You are a most thorough person," he said cryptically at last. "You tell me Mary is working diligently, but is she working to advantage? Is she getting her teeth into the role?"

His Interpretation.

I took a deep breath and dived off the deep end.

"Oh! yes, indeed," I said sweetly. "How could she help it, when you have given her such thorough preparation for the role? She is meticulous about following your every inflection and gesture. Indeed it is really your interpretation of the role which you will hear when you are ready for it."

"Ah-h," he said, and I wondered if it were my imagination, or did I really hear an undernote of malicious gloating in his voice? "That is most satisfactory as well as flattering. But I can talk to you about it more comfortably when I see you, which will be in less than an hour from now. Au revoir, my dear—lady."

I found the fingers of my other hand clenched into a fist as I replaced the receiver.

"Well," Lillian said, playfully lifting my hand and unclenching the fingers. "The old hyena must have been in unusually good form."

"He was," I said shortly, and then related the conversation to her, watching her face darken with anger as I talked.

"I'm afraid he means dirty work at the crossroads for Mary," she said when I had finished, "but I'm banking on you to foil him. And I'm going to do my best at building a slow fire under him when he gets here with his high-handed demands. But—you say he'll be here in less than an hour. We'll have to get busy. Our first step is to see Katrina."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAFETY PAYS PROFITS

MOST SO-CALLED "safety plays" involve the sacrifice of prospects for overtricks in order to insure the success of the contract. Some of the most careful measures, however, make the contract sure and at the same time develop a chance for extra tricks which would not exist if the more risky plans were followed.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

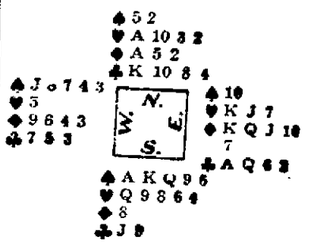
The bidding on this deal was 1-Heart by South, 1-Spade by North, 2-Hearts by South, 4-Hearts by North and 6-Hearts by South.

West led the club Q, which South won with the K. He next cashed the hearts A, Q and J, and followed with the ruff of the club 2. Next came the leads of the spades A, K and Q and on the latter the club 6 was discarded. The diamond 3 was next led, and because the declarer was fortunate in finding the diamond A with East, he made his contract.

His correct play is to attempt a squeeze for seven against whoever holds four spades, if that player also has the diamond A. He should win the first club and ruff the club 2 with the heart 9. Then a trump should be led to the closed hand for a club ruff with the heart K. Next should come a trump to the South hand and the remaining hearts cashed. East must either discard a spade or blank his diamond A. When the high club is then cashed, East is in a hopeless position.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

South had been doubled by East at 4-Hearts, which he redoubled. After the lead of the diamond 3, how should he proceed to make game?

My Neighbor Says:

The ideal plan is to sow lettuce seed in cold frames, and to put on the glass when the season becomes well advanced. When grown in this way, lettuce can be made available for the family table until Christmas or even later.

For those who have a hard time keeping the creases in the pleats of a middy skirt, here's a simple way to do it. Stitch the under folds of the skirt pleats close to the creases. When laundering press the pleats on the wrong side along the stitching.

When purchasing steaks be sure and get a piece of suet. Before the steak is place in the broiler cut up the suet into small pieces and place in broiler, add two cloves of garlic and render the suet and garlic together. Take the whole pieces of suet and garlic out, leaving nothing but the drippings, put in steak and continuously baste.

Moorhead, Linster Win Westbrook, Possum Run Titles

Auxter Beaten After Comeback

17-Year-Old Star Cracks on Third Nine, But Rallies to Triumph, 1-Up.

BOBBY MOORHEAD, 17, became the youngest golfer ever to win the Westbrook country club championship yesterday.

Settling down to a winning pace after cracking wide open at the start of the second half of the title match, Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moorhead, 23 Western avenue, defeated the more experienced Paul Auxter, 1 up, over the 36-hole championship route.

The victory furnished Moorhead with sweet revenge as it was Auxter who denied him a chance to reach the finals two years ago by elimination in the semi-finals by the same score by which he won yesterday.

Falters on Third Nine.

Young Moorhead played remarkably well except for the third nine when he let a five-hole advantage dwindle to nothing.

Apparently, not the least bit unnerved by Auxter's sensational comeback, Bobby came right back on the outside layout on the second 18 to turn back the challenge of his older opponent.

Moorhead decided the issue in his favor on No. 18 when he canned a 20-foot putt to halve the hole.

He obtained his winning advantage on the previous hole when he poked out one of his longest drives of the day on the long par five and pushed his second shot straight to the pin.

He over-putted trying for an "eagle," but the hole was a cinch as it took Auxter four to reach the green. Auxter ran into trouble after slicing his tee shot into the adjoining fairway. His second went into the rough and his third was short of the green.

Moorhead's tee shot on No. 18 faded to the right behind a sand trap and Auxter's hit the apron of the green to the right. Auxter's chances to win the hole and extend the match appeared bright until Moorhead trickled his downhill putt into the can after sending his approach past the pin.

Moorhead played his most consistent golf in the morning round when he built up a five-hole advantage on a 36-38—76 card while Auxter posted a 41-40—81.

Auxter, whose putting was not up to standard on the first 18, rallied gallantly after the intermission, but not once during the match was he able to gain the lead.

The runner-up regained his putting touch in the afternoon, and blasted out 36-39—75. Moorhead matched Auxter's morning card 43-38—81.

Auxter permitted the faltering Moorhead to win only one hole on the third nine. Moorhead took this hole on No. 3 when he made a brilliant recovery from a sand trap to get his par.

On the sixth, Moorhead was forced a couple to lengthen his advantage when Auxter pulled his second shot to the left into the rough. But Bobby did not waver on a spot from [illegible] Auxter taking the hole to cut the margin to three.

THEATER

A SERIES of homey, down-to-earth type of comedies is planned for the new combination of Oliver Hardy and Harry Langdon. Their first picture will be 'Zenobia's Infidelity," by H. C. Bunner, writer of whimsical novels . . . Announcement from the Hal Roach studio this week indicates that the broad, slap-stick comedy which marked the Hardy and Laurel comedies, will be little used in the new team's work . . . The series will be made almost entirely from well-known novels . . . Langdon is making a comeback after being practically down in the film industry. Always a good actor and comedian, his new future looks promising . . . On the other hand Stan Laurel, whom the studio let go recently for breach of contract when he failed to report for re-takes on "Blockheads," is without a job.

* * *

Dynamic Stars Together.

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, two of the most dynamic personalities in films and always a popular team, are together again in "Boy Meets Girl," screen version of the Broadway and road show hit. Mansfielders, who saw the stage comedy, will recall this as the play in which two mad writers decide to build a career for a little waitress' unborn son some time before he arrives on the scene. Marie Wilson, a new find, who has played in several films, gets her first big break in this. The role played by Miss Wilson was originally intended for Marion Davies. Dick Foran, Frank McHugh and Ralph Bellamy are in the supporting cast. The picture is the Madison attraction through Wednesday.

* * *

City Room Romance.

With a cast topped by Errol Flynn, Olivia deHavilland, Rosalind Russell and Patric Knowles, "Four's A Crowd," a swiftly paced comedy-romance, is entertaining audiences at the Ohio. Walter Connolly, Hugh Herbert, Melville Cooper and Franklin Pangborn add to the entertainment value of the film. A metropolitan newspaper plays a prominent part in the action. Knowles, a rich playboy, owns it and decides to sell it because it isn't making money; Miss Russell, a reporter, tells him how to get the paper on its feet; and when the new editor, Flynn, arrives he begins firing barbs at Miss deHavilland's rich grandfather, Connolly. They all have a lot of fun crowding each other, but it all ends happily.

* * *

"Viva Villa" Returns.

The revival of an old favorite and a new jungle film make up the two-feature bill at the Majestic for the middle of the week, starting today. Remember "Viva Villa," one of Wally Beery's greatest pictures? It has been reissued just as it was exhibited originally. Beery plays the ruthless killer and plunderer, the crude lover who could be gentle upon occasion, the man who was the idol of the peons of Mexico. The cast included several notable names—Leo Carrillo, Fay Wray, Donald Cook, Stuart Erwin, George E. Stone, Joseph Schildkraut and others. The Jungle picture is "Booloo" with Colin Tapley and Jayne Regan.

Another Stage Play.

Another stage comedy provides the screen with material in "Mama Steps Out," opening at the Ritz Wednesday. This is based on the play, "Ada Beats The Drum," by John Kirkpatrick. It was originally played by Mary Boland, George Barbier and Nyda Westerman, but in the screen version Alice Brady has the role created by Miss Boland, while Guy Kibbee has the Barbier role. As the wife of a wealthy perfume manufacturer, Miss Brady goes "arty" and insists on a European visit for culture. How she goes after culture and the effect on her family provides the comedy. Betty Furness and Stanley Morner provide romance.

Home Owners Show They've Definite Ideas

Consumer groups, college research people, high school, business course people, and home owners are making their likes and dislikes known in no uncertain terms when manufacturers, through their own research people, ask personal questions. Recently more than 1,000 property owners in 18 states were asked to state their reasons for or against buying any type of new heating plant.

Both of these manufacturers have seen more than 50 years of service in their industry and have for years believed that one of the strongest reasons for a consumer buying their products was the fact that the manufacturer had been in business so long.

Some of the reasons which these consumers voted on were type of construction — more heat, fewer ashes—home has fewer drafts—furnace holds fire longer—furnace never smokes up the home—company has been in business more than 50 years—because of even heat, less doctor bills, etc.

After consumers had voted on these reasons, it was found that all of them, almost without exception, placed this reason "company has been in business more than 50 years" last. The age of a concern may mean two or three things. To some it might mean stability; to others, it might mean dry rot.

Cooperating with the Williamson Heater company, the Charles Hoffman company, 106 North Walnut street, has installed a free heating check-up service which is being offered to every family in this community. Factory engineers cooperating with their local representatives make a complete examination of any home and prescribe for its heating problems without obligation.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Ninety per cent of the freight traffic of this country is handled in regularly scheduled freight trains that move on definite schedules, the same as passenger trains.

ICE ON PLANES

Industrial sources report a method of preventing ice formation on airplanes by use of metal paint through which electrical current is passed.

Settling Shaving Problem!

The picture above shows a customer purchasing a package of LaSalle razor blades at Sloan's pharmacy, 201 East Second street, where LaSalle blades always occupy a prominent place on the counter.

LASALLE BLADES ARE WINNERS FOR THIS MANSFIELD DRUGGIST

In addition to providing a complete prescription service, Sloan's Pharmacy, 201 East Second street, meets the multifold demands that is made upon the modern druggist.

The store's policy demands merchandise that will not only satisfy the customer, but will please them to the extent of securing their repeat business. One of the items that has helped to increase the confidence of Mr. Sloan's men customers is LaSalle razor blades which he features in his complete shaving department.

Pointing out the shaving comfort to be obtained from LaSalle blades, Mr. Sloan said he has found they stand the test of time.

"I know that when I recommend LaSalle razor blades I am recommending a blade which, because of its power-sealed edge and special processed pure Swedish steel, will, I have discovered, give more smooth and comfortable shaves than ordinary blades," he added.

Despite the high quality steel used in the manufacture of LaSalle blades, they are priced within reach of all and are obtainable at nearly all leading drug, department, cigar and confectionery stores in central Ohio.

MACHINE TOOLS

A recent government publication said: "Machine tools are not only the basic machines of industry but are also the only machines which perpetuate themselves. For these reasons the machine tool industry is often referred to as the parent industry of all manufacturing.

Steady Increase In Residential Building Noted

A persistent rising trend in residential building features the construction industry, a report issued by the Ohio Real Estate association reveals.

Since the low point in January, contracts for the erection of homes have notched up a few points monthly, gradually catching up to 1937 levels until in July the year earlier figure was exceeded for the first time—by 9 per cent.

In commenting on the situation, one investors service said: "Still more significant are the indications that this class of construction will at least hold its recovery over the next few months. Building permits in July were 54 per cent higher than a year ago, and with one exception, the largest in a number of years, while for seven months the total falls 1.4 per cent short of the sum a year ago."

To elaborate on the report, William P. Zinn, president of the Ohio Real Estate association, said: "More than 120,000 dwelling units were provided in buildings for which construction permits were issued in urban areas in the first half of 1938. Two of the nine geographic divisions, including that in which Ohio lies, provided more dwelling units during the first half of the 1938 than during the same period of 1937 and gains were shown in 17 of the 48 states."

This Market Offers Help In Planning Meals

Do you like to trade in a market that is as modern as a new kitchen—a market as spotless and as clean as your home—a market that helps you plan your meals in addition to selling you things to eat?

That's the aim of the Boston Cash Market, 228 North Main street, which handles a complete line of staple foods as well as fruits, vegetables, baked goods and meats.

"We strive to make this a friendly store where it is a pleasure to do business, and not a trial," Proprietor J. L. George says.

"We know our customers desire only the finest in foodstuffs so we stock only quality merchandise which is purchased in quantities that permit us to sell it at below average prices," Mr. George points out.

In addition to its complete stock of groceries, the Boston Market also handles imported merchandise such as cheese, oil, sardines, olives, and other European foodstuffs.

The market maintains a meat department that has a full line of quality meats, including smoked hams and cold meats.

Free delivery service is offered all patrons.

NEW CAR SALES UP IN AUGUST

Sales of new automobiles and trucks in Richland county last month showed a slight gain over figures for July, but lagged far behind sales in August, 1937.

County dealers sold 83 new cars and 15 new trucks in August, an increase of five cars and four trucks over the July sales, according to Norman P. Henry, deputy clerk of courts in charge of registrations.

Figures for last August, one of the banner months of the year, showed that 241 new automobiles and 36 trucks were sold in the county.

OLD OIL FIELDS

The reviving of old oil fields has been perfected by petroleum engineers through research. It is now believed at least 20 per cent more oil can be recovered from fields supposedly exhausted.

ORDINANCE NO. 38-160

By Mr. Shultz:

An Ordinance determining to proceed with the improvement of Forest Street from Marion Avenue to Bartley Avenue by grading the street and paving the roadway with concrete, brick, block, sheet asphalt or other suitable material and constructing the necessary curbing, headers, storm drainage, etc. and authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds to pay for said improvement.

Be it Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, Three-Fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring:

Sec. 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of First Street from Marion Avenue to Bartley Avenue by grading the street and paving the roadway with concrete brick, block, sheet asphalt or other suitable material and constructing the necessary curbing, headers, storm drainage, etc. in accordance with Resolution No. 38-102 passed June 7, 1938 and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of said improvement heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service of said city.

Sec. 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after completion of the proposed improvement.

Sec. 3. That the whole cost of said improvement, less One-Fiftieth thereof, and the cost of intersections, shall be assessed by the foot front upon the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement, and the remaining portion of the cost of said proposed improvement shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

That to provide a fund for the payment of the portion of the cost and expense for which special assessments are authorized to be levied for the improvement of Forest Street as aforesaid, the Mayor and Auditor be and they are hereby authorized to issue, advertise for sale and sell according to law Eleven Thousand ($11,000.00) Dollars of Street Assessment Bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in denominations of from 50 to 1000 Dollars each payable in from One to Five years, and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually.

That to provide a fund to pay that portion of the cost of said improvement which has to be paid by the City of Mansfield Ohio to-wit: $1 200 00 shall be taken from the Registration Fee Fund.

And the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the payment of the cost and expense of said improvement as aforesaid and to no other purpose whatsoever.

An annual levy shall be made during the term of said bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the same and to provide a sinking fund for their redemption as they mature.

Sec. 4. That the following lots and lands shall be assessed for said improvement as those determined. All the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon said improvement on Forest Street between Marion Avenue and Bartley Avenue.

Sec. 5. That upon the sale of said bonds the proceeds thereof, together with the moneys received, if any, from the cash payments of assessments shall be placed in the City Treasury the accrued interest and premiums shall be placed to the credit of the sinking fund, and the remaining portion of the purchase price of said bonds shall be placed to the credit of Forest street improvement fund and disbursed upon proper vouchers in payment of the cost and expense of the improvement aforesaid, and all moneys coming into said Forest street improvement fund are hereby appropriated for the purpose of said disbursements.

Sec. 6. That the Director of Public Service be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for bids and to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder, according to law.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Pased August 30, 1938.

K. P. TROLL,
President of Council.
Approved C. M. HUNTER,
Mayor.
Attest, WM. J. BEER, JR.,
Clerk of Council.

JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

I'M SAFELY IN HARBOR AT HOME TERRY,— BUT I WILL NEED YOUR HELP TO VERIFY A BIT OF EMERGENCY FICTION I TOLD MRS PUFFLE! — YOU RECALL THAT MOUNTAIN PROPERTY OUT NEAR YOUR RANCH WHICH I WON IN A POKER GAME LAST SUMMER? WELL, I TOLD THE MADAM THAT OIL WAS DISCOVERED ON IT! — NOW MY TRUSTED FRIEND, YOU WILL HAVE TO BACK ME UP! —
YOU CAN YELL IN MY RAIN-BARREL FOR HELP ANYTIME JEDGE!
BUT, LISTEN, — YOUR WIFE HAS TH WOLF TRAPS SET FOR ME! — PUT A CURB BIT ON HER AN I'LL TALK UP YOUR OIL MOUNTAIN SO SHE CAN ALMOST HEAR IT GUSHIN'! —
KEEP IT DOWN TO 5000 BARRELS A DAY, TERRY! —

LIGHT SELLING SENDS MARKET PRICES LOWER

Building Shares Exception to General Decline in Dull Trading.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—(INS)—The stock market sagged a point or more today as trading was resumed after the Labor day holiday week-end. Trading was extremely dull, leaders slipped easily on a broad front.

Wall street was a little surprised the market's performance, in view of the more encouraging outlook for a peaceful settlement of the German-Czech controversy. Some selling was attributed to those who had expected an uprush of stocks after the holiday.

Domestic business news continued favorable. Steel, operations were expected to show some improvement this week. Retail trade is entering its best season of the year.

Motors, steels, coppers, farm implements, amusements and aviations all suffered fair-sized declines in the light first-hour selling. Few sections were able to buck the trend, although most building shares eked out modest gains.

Chrysler fell 2 points before meeting support, displaying an extremely thin market on the downside. General Motors, though, limited its slide to a fraction.

Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum Philip Morris and Eastman Kodak chalked up small gains.

become the only man who ever accomplished the feat.

Turner and Earl Ortman of San Diego fought a private duel for the lead almost the entire distance. Ortman had outflown Turner at Oakland only last May.

Ortman, too, bettered DeTroyat's pace by five miles an hour.

With three laps to go, he hung doggedly to Turner's heels. He flashed over the line in second place, wheeled about, his ignition switch and shot in blindly, guided entirely by radioed instructions, since his windshield was covered with oil.

Ortman drifted in over a canvas fence at the south end of the airport with only feet to spare and landed his fleet racer with his motor frozen and his propeller idle.

Another record fell Sunday, when Tony Le Vier won the Greve race, at a speed of 250 miles an hour, also breaking the record held by DeTroyat. Miss Jacqueline Cochran won the transcontinental Bendix race, in eight hours, 10 minutes. She failed, however, to break the record set by Frank Fuller, last year.

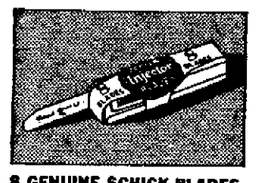
ONLY 1 OUT OF 12 MEN can get this SHAVING BARGAIN

The local supply is limited to that quantity. No more can be had. This is the closest thing to a "give-away" price ever offered on these nationally-known products. The object is to actually demonstrate and sample the world's best shave to the men of this city. Get YOURS before they are all gone.

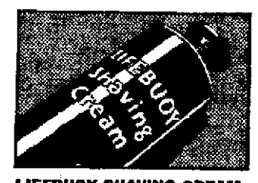
(See Offer Below)

A SPECIAL PLAN TO ADVERTISE THE IDEAL SHAVING COMBINATION!

GENUINE SCHICK INJECTOR RAZOR
Exactly the same famous razor now nationally advertised and sold in the De Luxe Kit (with 20 Blades) for . . . $2.00



8 GENUINE SCHICK BLADES, bathed in oil, in automatic metal Injector with trigger control for changing blades without touching them. No other razor has this patented method for quick, safe blade changing.

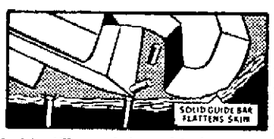


LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM, GIANT TUBE. Holds 52% more moisture than ordinary lather. Soaks whiskers soft. Soothes skin. Same as now selling for 25¢

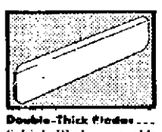
ALL THREE FOR a strictly limited time, in this vicinity, at the almost "Give-Away" Price of . . . 59¢

WHY MORE THAN A MILLION MEN ARE NOW USING THE INJECTOR RAZOR

OLD-STYLE SHAVE . . . The combing "teeth" of this razor guard are not designed to stretch the skin taut enough ahead of the blade edge—and have a tendency to "ridge" the skin surface. Blade can nick the top of ridges, cause bleeding and smarting. And, because whisker bends over as blade strikes it, the razor seems to "pull."



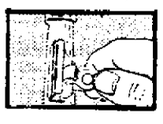
SCHICK INJECTOR SHAVE . . . Designed to flatten and stretch the skin, the Schick guide bar is solid, has no "teeth." Skin is stretched taut, giving a smooth shaving surface. Whiskers are held stiffly upright so blade can cut them cleanly at the skin line. Result: no nicks, no pull . . . even "against the grain."



Double-Thick Blades . . . Schick Blades are able to take a sharper edge and hold it. Each blade individually honed, stropped, inspected. More shaves per blade.

Sealed in a bath of oil in a metal cartridge. The blade edges are actually suspended in space; no paper covering which would rub and dull them.

Automatic Blade Change! Give the "trigger" a pull and push—out shoots old blade, in goes a fresh one! Nothing to unwrap, unscrew, twist or reassemble.



A rinse, and it's clean! Save minutes every day. No need to wipe and dry the Schick Injector Razor after every shave . . . a flush under the faucet, and it's ready to put away.

LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM
For Toughest Beards—For Tenderest Skins

Lifebuoy's extra moist, soothing lather takes all the "yumph" out of wiry whiskers—because it soaks them soft. Grand for tender skins, too, because it's 20% milder than other leading shaving soaps. There are 120 to 150 smooth, clean, FRESH shaves in the big red tube.

The Best Shaving Cream You Can Buy
Plus the World's Finest Razor

U. S. MOVES TO BOOST NATION'S AIR DEFENSE

War Department Orders 333 New Rapid-Fire Guns for Repulsing Plane Raids.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — American anti-aircraft defenses will be multiplied at least five or six times soon in an effort to make key cities as nearly impregnable as possible from the air, war department officials revealed today.

Reflecting the growing concern over the comparative defenselessness of large cities, the war department has awarded contracts for construction of 333 new rapid-fire, anti-aircraft guns and carriages. The total cost will be $10,000,000.

These guns will be sufficient to equip 32 regiments of anti-aircraft troops with the latest available weapons for repelling hostile air raiders. The contracts call for delivery of the finished guns within 21 months of the date of the contracts.

The amount by which anti-aircraft defenses will be increased is shown by the fact that at present the entire anti-aircraft defenses of the regular army is no more than six or seven regiments, equipped with a total of some 65 to 70 guns.

There also are some 10 to 12 National Guard regiments of anti-aircraft troops. But these are equipped only with training equipment—mainly machine guns.

Will Guard Coasts.

War department officials plan to distribute the new regiments as rapidly as completed guns are delivered and the troops are equipped, along the two seacoasts near the chief population centers and manufacturing areas. When the 32 regiments are equipped, the general staff believes it will have sufficient anti-aircraft forces to surround with adequate defenses such strategic cities as Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The new guns will be of the three-inch, rapid-fire type, mounted on mobile equipment which permit the guns to be transported from point to point at speeds ranging up to 50 miles per hour. They fire approximately the same shell as the famous French 75-MM, using high explosive projectiles fitted with time fuses. Their maximum vertical range is approximately 60,000 feet.

Equipped with a newly designed gun carriage and recoil mechanism, these guns can maintain a rapid rate of fire over prolonged periods without danger of overheating or jamming. Ordnance experts believe these guns are superior to any anti-aircraft guns in the world.

Richland Red Cross to Be Represented at Wooster Meeting.

Four members of the Richland County Red Cross Roll Call organization will attend the Roll Call camp at Wooster tomorrow, which will be conducted by a national field representative.

W. J. Locke, who will head the Red Cross Roll Call in the county for the third consecutive year, will be one of the camp speakers. He will talk on "Residential House to House Canvassing."

Others who will attend from here are Harold D. Burns, who will again have charge of the county Roll Call work; Mrs. John Pierce, ward chairman, and Gertrude B. English, executive secretary of the chapter.

NOT OVER YET!

Summer Temperatures Due to Return Again Tomorrow.

Summer temperatures are due to return to the Mansfield area tonight and Wednesday after almost a week of typical fall weather.

Chilly breezes last night sent the mercury down to 57 degrees and at noon today the reading was 78. Highest reading over the week-end was 89, recorded Sunday afternoon.

Light showers may follow the rising temperature tonight and Wednesday.

PERMIT HOLDERS PICK OFFICERS

Establishment of Credit Bureau Also on Docket for Tonight.

The first annual election of officers of the Richland County Permit Holders association will be held tonight at headquarters in the King building, E. C. Pollock, secretary, announced today.

The association also is expected to lay plans for the establishment of a clearing house credit bureau to protect its members against extended credit, Pollock said, in addition to making efforts to bring about a more uniform prices to conform with the level maintained in outside communities.

Pollock said that plans also would be formulated for an association outing to be held within the next few weeks.

Rotarians Hear of 'Dumb Swedes' From U. S. Swede

Better understanding of Swedes and Swedes was gained by Mansfield Rotarians Tuesday in the course of a talk given by John L. Bjelke, of Granville, secretary of the Denison University Alumni association, whose subject was "The Dumb Swede."

Of Swedish parentage and recently returned from a trip to Sweden, Bjelke (pronounced Belky), told of the country in which there are no slums and in which living standards among farmers and laboring classes are said to be higher than in the United States.

He stated that electricity is used in 75 per cent of the homes and on 60 per cent of the farms in Sweden, which is approximately the size of California, with a population about that of Ohio.

Operation of co-operatives, which also include adult study groups, was also explained, as well as the methods employed in restricting the liquor traffic.

A. M. Colby was chairman of the meeting which was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with R. D. Iden presiding after return from a two-week's vacation trip.

Next week's meeting will be with the Ashland Rotary club Tuesday at the Ashland Country club, with golf in the afternoon and dinner and bridge in the evening. This will take the place of the noon luncheon meeting of the Mansfield club.

REBEL COUP IN CHILE QUELLED

87 Killed in Fighting; Government Asks for Free Hand.

SANTIAGO, Cdile —(AP)— The government today asked a free hand for six months because of Monday's rebellion by a small group of Chilean national socialists, who were crushed after three and one half hours of fighting in which possibly 87 persons were killed.

The government blamed and arrested Gen. Carlos Ibanez, a candidate for the presidency, after the rebels were driven from a building of the National university and the 10-story Workers' Insurance building in which they had established defenses.

MAINE CAMPAIGN NEARING CLOSE

New Deal Figures In Election There Next Monday.

PORTLAND, Me. — (AP) — A Maine election in which the New Deal figured largely, particularly in its reciprocal trade program, jogged toward a wind-up today.

On next Monday, two months before other states elect, Maine voters will select a governor, decide whether three Republicans asking re-election, or their Democratic foes, should sit in the U. S. house of representatives, and choose state and county officers.

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows (R) seeks re-election over his Democratic predecessor, Lewis J. Brann, a would-be third termer.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO HYDE PARK

Arrives Home For Rest; No Speeches Till Sept. 17.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his home here today after a night train ride from Washington.

Aids said he had no speaking engagements until Sept. 17 when, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., he will observe the 150th anniversary of the ratification of New York's constitution.

There has been speculation that he might take occasion then to say something more about why he has asked Democrats of the 16th New York district not to renominate Representative John J. O'Connor.

FIRES, FLOODS PERIL JAPANESE

2,000 Buildings Destroyed As Blazes Follow Typhoon.

TOKYO —(AP)— Fire and floods swept central Japan today in the wake of a 97-miles-an-hour typhoon which left a possible 100 dead and destroyed property over a wide area.

Fire broke out in Takaoka, at the base of Noto Peninsula, and quickly leveled more than 2,000 buildings. Tokyo newspapers estimated deaths in the Takaoka fire at 100, possibly more. Osaka reported 15,000 homes were flooded. At Kobe 31 ships were sunk or damaged.

The typhoon swept over Shikoku island and Honshu, the main island of Japan, and reached the Japan sea this morning.

200 MINISTERS DUE TOMORROW FOR U. B. PARLEY

27 Counties to Be Represented at Annual United Brethren East Ohio Conference.

More than 200 ministers and delegates from 27 counties are expected to attend the 53rd annual East Ohio conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ which opens here tomorrow afternoon at the First United Brethren church. The meeting will continue for five days, closing Sunday.

Bishop A. R. Clippinger, D. D., of Dayton, will be the presiding bishop, and will be one of nine guest speakers. Among the others is Rev. J. C. Massee, D. D., Atlanta, Ga., evangelist, and a former pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church here. He is scheduled to speak Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

The conference will open at 1:30 p. m. with a Holy Communion service directed by Bishop Clippinger. A memorial service in charge of Rev. H. C. Schiering and Rev. J. E. Comer will follow the Communion service.

The evening session at 7:30 will be observed as Evangelist Night, and will be presided over by Rev. B. S. Arnold, conference superintendent. The address at the session will be given by Rev. Massee. His subject will be "God's Kingdom On Earth."

Other Speakers.

Others who will address the conference are Rev. S. G. Zeigler of Dayton, foreign missions secretary; Rev. J. Gordon Howard, Dayton, young people's secretary; Rev. J. R. Howe, Dayton, Bonebrake seminary instructor; Rev. E. E. Harris, Dayton, editor of "Watchword"; Rev. W. G. Clippinger, president of Otterbein college, Westerville; Rev. B. F. Lamb, Columbus, secretary Ohio Council of Churches; Rev. H. B. Pilchard, Columbus, field representative, Ohio Anti-Saloon league, and J. M. Cogan, Dayton, field agent for the Otterbein home.

The choir of the Mansfield church will present music during the conference.

Meanwhile the annual Sandusky district conference of the church closed at Toledo at which pastors of seven United Brethren churches in the vicinity were assigned.

The appointments are: Rev. O. E. Knepp, Galion; Rev. Paul Zimmerman, Schauck; Rev. John Searle, Shelby; Rev. Victor Roebuck, Tiro; Rev. D. C. Hollinger, Bucyrus; Rev. W. E. Strete, Cardington, and Rev. Paul Sharp, Willard.

"I don't care where they went," the man replied, "but I want my radio back. It cost me $65."

OKAYS ELECTION

Kennedy Tells Union District to Go Ahead With Vote.

Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today told the county board of elections to go ahead with plans for a special election Sept. 20 on a proposed $75,900 school bond issue in the Union rural school district north of Mansfield.

The election board had held up approval of the election because the school board's application to submit the bond issue was filed after the Sept. 1 deadline.

The election will be held the same day Mansfield electors will vote on a $550,000 bond issue for a school building program. The two elections will not conflict, however, since the districts do not overlap.

If approved, the Union rural district bonds will provide funds to supplement an anticipated federal PWA grant for a new $138,000 school in Franklin township.

10 Injured as City, Vicinity Escape Serious Accidents Over Week-End.

with F. E. Myers and Bros. company.

In Mansfield yesterday, Jerry Wilson, 30, and Mrs. Lillian Meiers, 35, both of Chicago, were treated at General hospital for minor injuries suffered when their car ran off the road near Mifflin, and turned over after skidding on loose gravel, state highway patrolmen said.

In another accident yesterday on U. S. route 250, north of Savannah, Frank Toth, 19, and John Delegan, both of Hammond, Ind., suffered head injuries when their car collided with a machine operated by J. H. Fels of Savannah, as Foth was attempting a left turn from the highway. Both are confined at the Samaritan hospital in Ashland.

George W. Kane, 184 McPherson street, was treated at General hospital for head lacerations, suffered when a car driven by William Slisher, R. D. 1, Mansfield, turned over in a ditch 1½ miles north of Perrysville on route 39, at 10:30 p. m. Saturday.

Mrs. George Brown, 52, Ellet, suffered body bruises yesterday when the car in which she was riding with her husband, Jamin Brown, 54, collided with a machine operated by Samuel Epstine, 37, Mt. Vernon, at the intersection of routes 13 and 224, 1½ miles east of Greenwich.

Edwin Harris, 30, Norwalk, also suffered a back injury in the same accident when the two cars collided with his truck parked at the intersection, state patrolmen said.

Clayton Histed, 16, of Crestline, suffered arm and head lacerations as the car in which he was riding with Herbert Smith, 17, also of Crestline, left the road two miles west of Mansfield on U. S. route 30N at 4 a. m. Sunday.

Corporal J. E. Ruch of the state highway patrol said Smith was standing on the running board of the car attempting to adjust the motor and lost control of the car.

Fails To Stop, Fined $100.

At Ashland today Cecil McMananay, 25, of R. D. 1, Polk, was fined $100 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop after an accident which occurred at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, but in which no one was injured.

Charges were filed by Thomas Wright 18, of 198 Park avenue west, who said McMananay sideswiped his car on U. S. route 42, south of Ashland, and failed to stop.

McMananay was arrested at a filling station in Ashland shortly after the accident.

Earl W. Sonner, 51½ South Main street, escaped injuries when the car he was driving sideswiped a machine operated by Robert Kunkle, 16, of Butler, on route 39, three miles north of Loudonville, early yesterday.

Five other Mansfield persons were home today recovering from injuries suffered when their car skidded into a guard rail last Friday as the driver avoided hitting a horse that had wandered onto the highway north of Ashland on route 42.

The driver of the car, J. S. Au, 266 South Main street, suffered a bruised arm while his wife sustained a fractured arm.

Passengers in the car, Mrs. Glenn Davidson and daughter, Martha Jane 18, Ford avenue, and Mrs. C. C. Snyder, Wooster road, received body bruises and lacerations.

them. He has a right to criticize those who sold out the New Deal."

Attacking John W. Bricker and Robert Taft, the Republican candidates for governor and U. S. senator in Ohio, "because they would undo all the good that President Roosevelt has done," Fahlhaber said both candidates would have to "answer a lot of questions asked by labor before they could expect the support of labor groups."

Atty. George W. Biddle, who presided as chairman of the speaking program, spoke briefly on the "machine evil" as it affects workers.

Rev. Paul E. Hollingshead of the Central M. E. church, gave the invocation, and Rev. Mark A. Vogel, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, delivered the benediction.

Amateur boxing exhibitions and children's athletic contests followed the speaking program.

There was dancing in the coliseum during the late afternoon and evening, with the Westinghouse orchestra, directed by R. O. Richards, furnishing the music.

Harry Boyer and Joseph Snyder were in charge of the committee which arranged the program.

Winners in the children's contests which followed the boxing matches were:

Boys' events—50-yard dash, Osler Seymour, first; Robert Gibson, second; 60-yard dash—Jack Gallagher, first; Dick Borden, second; sack race — Frank Beckel, first; three-legged race — Cliff Johnson and Osler Seymour, tied for first.

Girls' events — 50-yard dash, Jean Bucher, first; Betty Wentz, second; 60-yard dash—Jeannette Tanello, Lucas, first; Glorine Strine, Ashland, second; three-legged race — Ruth Sawyer of Mansfield and Peggy Seidel, Shelby; spoon race — Mary Ann Engelsrud, Mansfield.

SEVERED SNAKE HEAD BITES MAN

Texan Bitten Removing Rattler From Chopping Block.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP) — The severed head of a rattlesnake bit a man here.

Olin Dillon, snake handler at a reptile garden, severed the snake's head yesterday. When he attempted to remove the head from the chopping block, the fangs struck one of his fingers. He was hospitalized.

Jack Davenport, garden director, said the bite resulted from muscular reflex action and that Dillon received more venom than from the usual bite.

John C. Davis, Druggist.

This is a thrilling age, full of speed, danger, complexity. The average person of today knows more, sees more, feels more in a day than his grandfather did in a decade.

The age also makes its demands upon the human system. The shocks and alarms of modern life are exhausting, enervating; they break down physical reserves until life becomes a burden. Yet a really healthy person enjoys modern life.

Physicians understand the need for physical fitness. Consult your doctor at the first sign of apathy or mental unrest. He can improve your health and keep you zestful.

course in safety methods will be taught for the first time, and school bus requirements have been raised to eliminate outmoded and unsafe buses.

Seven one-room schools in the county today joined the long list of "little red schoolhouses" which have been vacated during recent years in a consolidation program.

Four of them were consolidated with the Bellville district, two were merged with larger schools in the Union rural district, and in Madison township the Yankeetown school was consolidated with the Lincoln Heights school.

Opening with the Mansfield school Wednesday will be the Country Day school, Blymyer avenue, and the special schools for handicapped children which are operated in conjunction with the public elementary schools.

COLUMBUS SEES BRIGHT METEOR

It Blazes Across Sky; Expert Says It Won't Be Found.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Prof. Edward S. Manson of Ohio State university said today that it was improbable that a blazing meteorite seen just west of Columbus last night would be found.

The meteorite made a brilliant white light across the sky at 10:45 p. m., lasting for several seconds. Prof. Manson said meteorites appear closer than they really are and that it probably burned out before it could reach the earth.

Deputy Sheriff Edward S. Carroll said the light was "as bright as an airplane flare and looked as large as a bushel basket."

SERVICES TODAY

Loudonville Man Who Died Here Buried At Centerburg.

Funeral services were to be held this afternoon at Centerburg, O., for Wilbur H. VanHorn of Loudonville, who died Saturday afternoon at General hospital following an operation.

Mr. VanHorn had lived in Loudonville for the past three years. He was head of the Muskingum Conservancy project which includes the Pleasant Hill, Charles Mill, Mohawk, and several other dams.

He is survived by his wife Essie, and one brother and two sisters.

LIGHT SESSION

Only 3 Measures Slated to Face Council Tonight.

With only three measures in the legislative hopper, city council has one of the lightest sessions in recent years in view tonight for its regular monthly meeting.

The three pieces of legislation on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., include one ordinance and two resolutions.

One resolution asks council to approve the construction of curb and gutters on Coleman road from Marion avenue to Euclid avenue, to be included in the WPA street and sidewalk program.

The lone ordinance calls for an appropriation of $1,500 from the gasoline tax fund to the curb and gutter repair fund.

The other measure, a resolution, calls for the transfer of $1,000 within the garbage fund.

OPPOSES RAIL SLASH

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)— The Ohio State Association of Letter Carriers today was on record against a proposed 15 per cent wage reduction for railroad employes.

HIRES SCHOOL OFFICER TODAY

Board to Fill Attendance Job and Let Taxi Contract at Special Session.

Employment of an attendance officer and the letting of a taxi contract for transportation of handicapped pupils to school will come before the Mansfield board of education at a special meeting late this afternoon.

The board also will formally accept a $450,000 PWA grant for its proposed $1,000,000 building program. The funds have been alloted to the school board, but they cannot be used unless voters approve a $550,000 bond issue at a special election Sept. 20.

Names of three applicants for the attendance officer's post had been certified to the board today by the Mansfield civil service commission. John H. Eisaman, 5 Summit court, heads the list with a grade of 86 per cent. Other certifications are Bernard C. Park, 114½ North Diamond street, 84 per cent, and Wilbur Wierman, 288 Alexander avenue, 83 per cent.

The appointee will succeed the late Arthur H. Wood, attendance officer in the city schools for several years. Mr. Wood died last spring.

The DeLuxe and Service Cab companies have submitted bids for the contract for transporting special pupils. The contract involves approximately $3,000 a year.

EGGS BY AIR

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A commercial airliner passed through here recently carrying 918 pounds of eggs from Louisville, Ky., to Newark, N. J. The eggs were used in a serum experiment. Airline officials reported the eggs numbered 6,120—and not an omelette showed in a planeload.

School Days Are Here Again

RESUMPTION of school sessions, after ten weeks of vacation, will change routine in the thousands of Mansfield homes in which there are children of school age.

Promptness is one of the valuable traits learned by school attendance, and is also one that can be encouraged in the home by parents making sure that children are always up in time for an unhurried breakfast and in readiness for their start to school.

Of all the thousands of Mansfield children who will start off to school tomorrow morning, the event will probably attain greatest importance for those six-year-olds who go for the first time. To them it will be the first breakaway from home surroundings and the necessary school discipline will be new to them. Importance of a right start in the first grade should not be minimized by either parents or teachers.

A myth was permitted to grow up through many years that children do not "like to go to school." The fact of the matter is that school provides associations and opportunities to find out things of interest along lines that are enjoyed by healthy, normal children, and that dislike of school attendance is the exception rather than the rule.

Unless there are too many outside distractions from school work, making it difficult to keep up with prescribed studies, there is no reason why a child should not get considerable pleasure, as well as educational profit out of school attendance.

Opening of city schools naturally returns public interest to the subject of Mansfield's present inadequate public school facilities and to the fact that a special election is scheduled for two weeks from today; to again vote on the school bond issue which was favored by a majority at the August primary election but failed, by a slight margin to reach the required 65 per cent.

A federal grant of $450,000 depends on passage of the $550,000 bond issue by Mansfield voters, making possible a million-dollar public school improvement program for this city.

An Orphan Boy Who Became Great.

LOOKING for an example of the extent to which America offers opportunity for a poor boy to succeed greatly in his chosen line of work, it would be difficult to find one more convincing than is disclosed by a study of the career of Patrick Joseph Cardinal Hayes, of New York, whose earthly life ended Sunday.

Born in New York City November 20, 1867, Cardinal Hayes was an orphan from early boyhood, and might easily have been excused had he fallen victim of bad environment or succumbed to the difficulties of gaining an education and making a place for himself in the world.

Instead, he found a way to secure an education, prepare for the priesthood, and finally advance to the high distinction of cardinal of the largest and richest Catholic diocese in the world, with 452 churches, 1,575 priests and 1,300,000 parishioners within his jurisdiction.

Always deeply concerned with the welfare of the poor, the special interest of Cardinal Hayes was in the Catholic Charities Fund, established in 1920, which has been instrumental in distributing more than $20,000,000 for charitable purposes and which earned for him the designation, "cardinal of charities."

When there is a feeling of discouragement over conditions in the world, brought on by thoughts of war, and crime, and poverty, there is consolation in the realization God sometimes places upon earth such great characters as Cardinal Hayes, whose influence for good is beyond estimate.

Well may there be a prayer of thankfulness that the world was permitted to have, for a little while, such a man as Cardinal Hayes.

Restoring Liberty.

IN THE YEAR 1886 the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor was completed and opened to the public. It was the gift of France—from the people of one liberty-loving nation to another.

Since then, the Goddess of Liberty, standing so straight in her bronze robes, holding her torch for all to see, has become a sort of symbol of America—the first thing most travelers glimpse which seems to them characteristic of this land of the free.

But even Liberty has to have upkeep attention once in a while. This year the Goddess is getting what is described as a thorough reconditioning, at a cost of $250,000.

Liberty is to be completely examined, overhauled and given a new lease of life.

It is time the job was done. The bronze lady of the harbor stands for the liberty of France and of America—that liberty of which eternal vigilance is the price.

Newspaper House.

ELLIS STENMAN of Pigeon Cove, Mass., has built a house all of newspaper. His walls are made of 215 thicknesses of newsprint, pasted, folded and pressed.

Mr. Stenman is a retired inventor, and he just hates to throw away newspapers. He says you can unpaste his walls and take apart his furniture and read his house all over again if you really want to.

Yankee ingenuity is a strange and terrible thing. Mr. Stenman, according to Editor and Publisher, has a desk made of Christian Science Monitors, a cot of the history of the World war, a radio cabinet of Hoover's 1928 campaign, a piano of Byrd's expeditions and a book shelf of papers from all nations.

Rather odd when a baseball "nine" needs at least that many pitchers.

Watching Trends

(As Preston Grover's guest columnist today, Secretary Ickes tells of the benefits of government spending in time of depression. Tomorrow Senator Byrd will present another side of the question.)

By HAROLD L. ICKES
Secretary of the Interior and Public Works Administrator.

WASHINGTON—The 1938 PWA program is rolling along at unprecedented speed. The PWA is allotting an average of about $25,000,000 daily for enduring, worthwhile public improvements which means extensive stimulation for business and industry. Thus far, we have approved something more than 5,000 projects with a total construction value of $1,250,000,000

Although the 1938 program is only two months old, we have been impressed with the widespread popularity of what PWA has to offer the country as evidenced by the concerted rush to obtain PWA projects. I authorized taking applications for new projects late in May and the first were received about June 1. The 1938 act was signed by President Roosevelt June 21 and applications then began to flow at constantly accelerated speed.

Industry in general has realized that this type of program actually does "prime the pump," although that term has been subjected to a notorious amount of abuse and free interpretation. The "priming" that comes to American industry from the PWA program, however, comes in measurable amounts of specific orders for materials and supplies—orders that careful compilation by a disinterested agency has shown have kept the wheels of many of our corporations moving during lean days.

* * *

Public Improvements.

AS THE course followed by PWA is reviewed, two important facts stand out. One is that, almost paradoxically, while the nation was in the throes of a great depression, it made its greatest progress in improving its real wealth in the form of new schools, new municipal buildings, new bridges, streets, libraries, hospitals, subways, tunnels, harbor and terminal facilities and the like.

As a method of battling the depression and diverting its destructive forces, we launched what probably has been the greatest single program of public improvement in our history. The result is that because of a depression our educational facilities have been amplified many times, the national system of highways has been extended and improved, disease-ridden slums have been torn out and good housing put in their place, and in general our physical municipal plants have been refurbished and rebuilt. All this certainly meant the conversion of an ill wind into one form of general good.

The second fact of importance is that we have learned to gauge and direct the multiple economic forces which come into play in a public works program, so that in the future we can guide a public works program in the direction in which it will do the most good.

* * *

Lessons Learned.

THE bureau of labor statistics of the U. S. department of labor undertook with the co-operation of the PWA to measure these quantities in exact proportion. As a result, that agency was able to determine that for every hour of employment created at the site of PWA construction, two and a half times as much work was generated in regular industrial employment—furnishing, creating, transporting and distributing supplies and materials. It determined how much employment was created, directly and indirectly, in the construction of a public building, or a reclamation project, or a water or sewage project. It found out what types of project would "take up the slack" in the lumber industry and lumber areas, in the machinery business, the stone, clay and glass industry, or the chemical business.

Never again will we have to strike out as we did once, blindly but hopefully. Thus we have learned as we have built.

Timely Editorial

Best Bait for 'Joiners'.

The Dies committee now sitting in Washington has made the discovery that the average American will join almost anything which has a satisfactorily high-sounding name regardless of whether his ideas as to just what the organizations aims or purposes may be are clear-cut or not.

This isn't anything new, of course. Back in the early 20's the Ku Klux Klan attracted as many neophytes by reason of its honored name as by its absurd flummery, its night-shirts, fiery crosses, elaborate ritual and fervid protestations of 100% Americanism. People remembered the post-Civil war klan as something dashing, romantic and vaguely commendable and hastened to lay their initiation fees on the line.

If ever there was a time for men and women to scrutinize any organization with care before pointing at or contributing to its support, it is now. The Dies committee's discovery may seem funny but it points to a peculiarly American complaisance which is nothing of which to be proud.—Columbus Dispatch.

Roosevelt Determined To Dictate

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — A new "purge" is now under way. Undismayed by crushing defeats in South Carolina and Idaho, and defeats to come indicated by polls and information in Maryland and Georgia, the New Deal is planning to strip all recalcitrants of their patronage, and build up new machines in Maryland, Georgia, South Carolina and other states where the organizations at present are controlled by men who might not see eye to eye with President Roosevelt when the next Democratic national convention is called to order.

The whole object is to make sure that the convention does not nominate a man of the type of Vice President John Nance Garner, or Jesse H. Jones, or Harry Flood Byrd. What is wanted of course is a convention which will nominate some 100 per cent New Dealer, 100 per cent not only in past actions and votes, but in mental processes. This is especially necessary if Mr. Roosevelt should decide not to take the nomination himself, for it is generally admitted that even with the added strength of the conservative Democrats they would find it impossible to beat a Roosevelt anxious for renomination.

* * *

LEAVING out California, where neither of the leading Democratic candidates for senator was anti-New Deal, and the paramount issue was the $30-a-week pension scheme opposed by Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and the President, the box score to date is not very comforting to the New Deal.

The "lame ducks" so far are William Dieterich of Illinois, George L. Berry of Tennessee, James Pope of Idaho, and McAdoo, all 100 percenters. Senators of the "yes, but" variety who have been renominated are Alva B. Adams of Colorado (not actually nominated but with no opposition candidate whose name can be printed on the ballots), Bennet C. Clark of Missouri, Guy M. Gillette of Iowa, Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, and Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana.

Curiously enough, many commentators spoke of the South Carolina result as the first test of the purge. It is true that President Roosevelt himself never asked for Senator Gillette's defeat in Iowa, but the fact that James Roosevelt did, plus the fact that not only Harry L. Hopkins injected himself, but that the President approved Hopkins' action, led to the Iowa result being classified as a "purge that failed."

Sitting senators who are 100 per cent New Dealers and who have been renominated include Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Claude Pepper of Florida, Lister Hill of Alabama, George McGill of Kansas, and Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina. Of these McGill is generally conceded to be the only one who faces any danger in the election.

* * *

MEANWHILE two Republican sitting senators, James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, and Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, were renominated over opposition in primaries although they had opposed certain New Deal measures.

The list would be incomplete, in view of all developments to date, unless F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin is included. Duffy is assured of renomination by the Democrats, but will have a battle—with defeat the expectancy of most New Dealers—against whomever the Progressives decide to nominate. The La Follettes have turned thumbs down on him.

So far every "Yes, but" Democrat facing a renomination fight has won, while the score of the 100 percenters is no better than 50 per cent.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Sept. 6, 1918.

Mansfield joined in patriotic observance of LaFayette's birthday anniversary.

Gerald Guthrie was appointed substitute clerk at postoffice.

Wearing of overalls by women workers in factories was declared not to be immodest.

Birthday party was given for two-year-old Florence Eugenia Johnston, Columbia avenue.

Mrs. Kitty F. Neuman and Mrs. Harold Stoll were appointed as assistants at public library.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Sept. 6, 1933.

Council approved a $250,000 public works program which called for elimination of East Fourth street crossing of Pennsylvania tracks, street widening, storm sewer construction and new water mains to business section.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Whipp, Flint street, were the parents of a son.

Dr. John Hayes was named acting health commissioner to take place of Dr. M. C. Hanson, on leave of absence.

Eugene Weinberger, conductor of Mansfield Symphony orchestra, returned from four-months trip to Europe, where he said he found jazz music gaining in popularity.

Miss Margaret Strickler won prize at Westbrook for showing greatest improvement during season and Miss Sarabelle Kramer won first prize for low net score for season.

TODAY IN HISTORY

After sweeping over an area of about 436 acres and destroying 13,200 houses and 89 churches, the disastrous Great Fire of London finally subsided on Sept. 6, 1666.

About Whooping Cough Vaccine.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PARENTS now have to make up their minds about another form of immunization for their children—that against whooping cough. Some day the time may come when young children will have to take off a sabbatical year and be immunized against everything all at once.

The whooping cough question arises in connection with the apparent success of the Sauer vaccine. I think it is fair to advise parents that this should be given to their children, but it is by no means in the same class of necessity or certainty as diphtheria and smallpox vaccination. It is, however, perfectly safe.

Whooping cough is by no means a minor malady, although often so regarded. It not only makes a child very weak and sick, but has a very definite death rate. Anything that can be done to prevent it, therefore, is to be desired and welcomed.

Since Dr. Sauer introduced his vaccine, in 1934, there has been a marked reduction in the incidence of whooping cough. From 1930 to 1935 there were reported in the United States, on the average, 196,000 cases of whooping cough a year. In 1936 there were 147,000. The figures for 1937 are not yet available, but the indications are that the decrease will be maintained.

Due to Vaccine?

Was this due to the introduction of the prophylactic vaccine? That seems hardly likely. In some cities its use is quite widespread, but it is hardly in enough general use to have made that much difference.

Still it may have played somewhat of a part. Analyzing the statistics of cases that have had the treatment, indicates that the Sauer vaccine, properly given, protects well over 90 per cent of those immunized. Of 3,000 children who were thus vaccinated, 219 were subsequently known to be exposed to whooping cough and only 17 contracted it.

That result is, of course, nothing compared to the results in diphtheria prophylaxis, but it is encouraging. Perhaps the most notable example I know of its effectiveness was in the case of a family of four children. The father being of a biological frame of mind—that is, fond of controls—gave two of them Sauer vaccine. Later all four were accidentally exposed to whooping cough. The two who were not vaccinated caught it, but the others, in spite of the fact that they lived with their sick brothers, did not catch it.

I tell these things for what they are worth. If you decided not to give your child whooping cough vaccine, I would not blame you, and if you decided to give it to him, I would not blame you.

A Farmer's Diary

First Day of School.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS MORNING, seated in my car, at a corner, I watched a little drama.

An old, drab farmhouse stood some distance from the road. The door opened, and a little boy and his mother came out onto the stoop. The boy wore overalls and a clean white shirt. His face was lifted, and his mother took it in her hands and kissed both checks. Then he ran down the walk, a dinner pail in his hand.

Once while going forward, he looked back to where his mother stood, and waved. At that instant he stumbled over a stone and fell...but jumped quickly up, brushed off his knees, and started on.

"How often will he fall in life," I thought..."what a boon if he can always brush off the dust of disappointment and go forward!"

"Good morning, young man," I said when he came near me, "I'll bet you're going to school ...is that right?"

He smiled shyly. His dark eyes snapped, and I caught a glimpse of two, big, new front teeth. "It's the first day," he admitted. "I have to catch the bus at this corner."

"How old are you?"

"Six—goin' on seven."

At that instant the big orange school bus came down the road. It was early on the route, and there were only a few other children on it. He climbed aboard, then turned once more to wave to the apron-clad figure at the door of his home. She waved in return. The bus rolled on...and I saw her put the corner of her clean, checked apron to her eyes.

I knew that mother's heart was aching with mingled pain and gladness. The first day of school for him...the first day of separation during the six short years of his life. Yesterday that little, confiding, playful boy was hers...hers for six years had been the making of his world. Today he left the little world of home for the larger, more hazardous one of school and street. When evening comes he will be a different boy.

Young America Says---

Survival of Democracy Depends On Youth's Interest In Government.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU BOAST about your "RIGHTS" . . . you'd see red if anyone challenged your "AMERICAN FREEDOM"—

But do you know what your "RIGHTS" are?

Do you know how far your "FREEDOM" extends, or what it costs?

Do you read the political news in your paper?

Could you tell a foreigner how your country is run?

And how much information have you about the man for whom you vote?

Or aren't you even sufficiently interested to cast a ballot?

There are some extremely personal and possibly embarrassing questions, but Hugh Harriss Warren, loyal Young American resident of Houston, Texas, thinks it's time you faced them and is willing to wager that your face will be red when you do. I wonder!

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"THE POLITICAL APATHY OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTRY TODAY IS APPALLING, ESPECIALLY SO IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT THEIR LIVES WILL BE SO VITALLY AFFECTED BY THE SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC CHANGES NOW TAKING PLACE IN THIS COUNTRY AND THROUGHOUT THE WORLD TODAY — CHANGES RESULTING LARGELY FROM OUR PRESENT NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL POLITICS.

"At a recent party primary I was surprised to discover how large a number of the young people were totally unfamiliar with the various candidates, their platforms and political affiliations. Among this group were some who had paid their poll taxes. Quite a large number had not paid their poll taxes as they did not care that much for the privilege of voting, some going so far as to say they did not care who was elected governor, senator, or congressman.

"Someone has said that the people get exactly the kind of government they deserve. With this in mind, I thought how indignant most of my contemporaries would be, if they found their lives personally affected by the injustices of corrupt politicians, and how hotly they would protest. Yet their own political apathy would be largely responsible.

"If our young people could only realize that the survival of the democracy depends to a great extent upon their personal interest and participation in politics, they'd certainly change their present attitude!

"Yours for more political interest among the young people."

Hugh Harriss Warren, age 25,
Houston, Texas.
($10 prize)

There speaks a real American! And now comes another, with more straight-from-the-shoulder suggestions.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I will be fourteen years old this month. When I was smaller, grown people were always saying, "You mustn't do this and you must do that if you wish to grow up to be a man."

"From this, I naturally concluded that grown men were wonderful beings who were always gentle, considerate, honest, intelligent, fair and reasonable in their dealings with each other. BUT THE LONGER I LIVE, THE MORE I REALIZE THAT NOT ONLY HAVE ADULTS EVERY WEAKNESS CHILDREN HAVE, BUT THAT THESE WEAKNESSES ARE INTENSIFIED AND UNCONTROLLED!

"Teachers and books are always saying that adolescence is a difficult time. It is the period when young people, groping their way toward physical and mental maturity, naturally choose certain older people as 'idols,' whose conduct they try to follow as closely as possible.

"BUT WHAT SORT OF 'IDOLS' CAN MY GENERATION FIND TO FOLLOW? AND HOW MUCH HELP AND INSPIRATION IS THE AVERAGE OLDSTER, MAN OR WOMAN, TO A GROWING YOUNGSTER WHO IS LOOKING FOR GUIDANCE?

"Older people do not realize how seriously we take their praise. To win an encouraging word or pat on the back, many of us put in long hours on the athletic field. Some have spent this summer vacation tinkering with radio materials from the dime store. Some are trying to write stories and poems and are having our first experience with rejection slips. And having chosen the wrong kind of idol, some are making their terrifying experiments with crime.

"WE ARE CHOOSING OUR IDOLS, WORLD! WE ARE COPYING YOU! WHAT ARE YOU GIVING US TO COPY, AND IF THIS YOUNGER GENERATION PROVES TO BE WEAK, SHALLOW, CARELESS, UNRELIABLE—WHO WILL BE TO BLAME?"

Wallace Soderquist,
Waukegan, Ill.
($10 prize winner)

There's another letter which I wish every priest and pastor in America would quote!

* * *

AND now, with the Football Season rolling 'round again, the old debate on "Subsidized Athletics" rises once more—SHOULD OR SHOULD NOT THE CAMPUS HEROES RECEIVE A SALARY—OR ITS EQUIVALENT?

"DEFINITELY NO!" says 18-year-old Adele Baldocchi, of Daly City, Calif. "Such a practice is absolutely un-American. The relationship of a scholar to his school and its activities should be one of loyal friendship. Would any decent person sell friendship . . . or place a price on his service to a friend? No! There's enough cheapness in this world without bringing it on to the campus.

"The college or high school athlete who accepts pay is on a par with the policeman who accepts bribes. The athlete who is dishonest enough to sell out his school will inevitably grow into the citizen who will sell out his country!"

Life Has a Grain.

ONCE I read a poem by Robert Frost about an axe helve. The poet was chopping wood in his yard when a woodsman neighbor came along and told him the helve of his axe was bad. The grain ran across the helve instead of along the lines of the handle. The neighbor took Frost to HIS home and showed him a good axe handle. He showed him

"that the lines of a good helve
Were native to the grain before the knife
Expressed them, and its curves were no false curves
Put on it from without."

And thus it had strength for hard work. Thus it could endure. Thus it bent but did not break as it flashed down and the sharp edge bit into the tough wood of the day's endeavor.

So many of our ideas about life, it seems are like bad axe helves. They do not follow the lines of human nature. The strength is not in them. They last only until they are put to the test and then they break. And if they are OUR ideas we bemoan our fate and the axe that has failed us. But the AXE has not failed; we failed it by giving it a handle that was not "native to the grain."

And so it is that life never fails us. It is we, instead, who fail life which needs wisdom as much as it needs faith.

I've heard many persons lament that life fails us, wrecks our ideals, smudges dreams, proves false to those high hopes we have had. I've heard them put such though wistfully, defiantly, into words and I have been sorry for them and for myself.

Nevertheless I do not believe that life fails us, "wrecks our ideals," proves false. I think our troubles happen to us because we do not understand what life is really like. It smudges our dreams when they are not of this world but of some other imagined planet that exists nowhere on land or sea or in the air. It proves false only for those who try to get more out of life than they are willing to give.

But those who remember that life has a grain to be recognized, respected and obeyed — are the happy ones.

FRIENDLY HOUSE READY FOR FALL

Registration of Children to Get Under Way on Sept. 12.

Registration of children for fall and winter activities at the Friendly House wil begin Monday, Sept. 12, Russell Gimbel, head-worker at the settlement, announced today.

The full week will be turned over to registration and the kindergarten, clubs and classes will begin their schedules, Monday, Sept. 19.

The kindergarten is open to all children in the city between the ages of four and five years.

About 12 young men and women volunteer workers are needed at the settlement to conduct the classes and clubs.

GUM BAITS FISH

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—(U.P.)—The "fish story" season has arrived here, too. Jack Brechenridge, veteran lumberman, reports he ran out of bait while fishing in the Sault ship canal so he put a piece of chewing gum on his hook—and hauled out a 4½ pound whitefish.

AIR CONDITIONED SCHOOLS

LOUISVILLE, K.—(U.P.)—The "good old summer time" soon may be just a memory if plans of the Louisville board of education materialize. Stephen S. Jones, board president, says the city schools may be air-conditioned if other cities find it practicable. Such an innovation would mean year-round classes with shorter and more frequent periods.

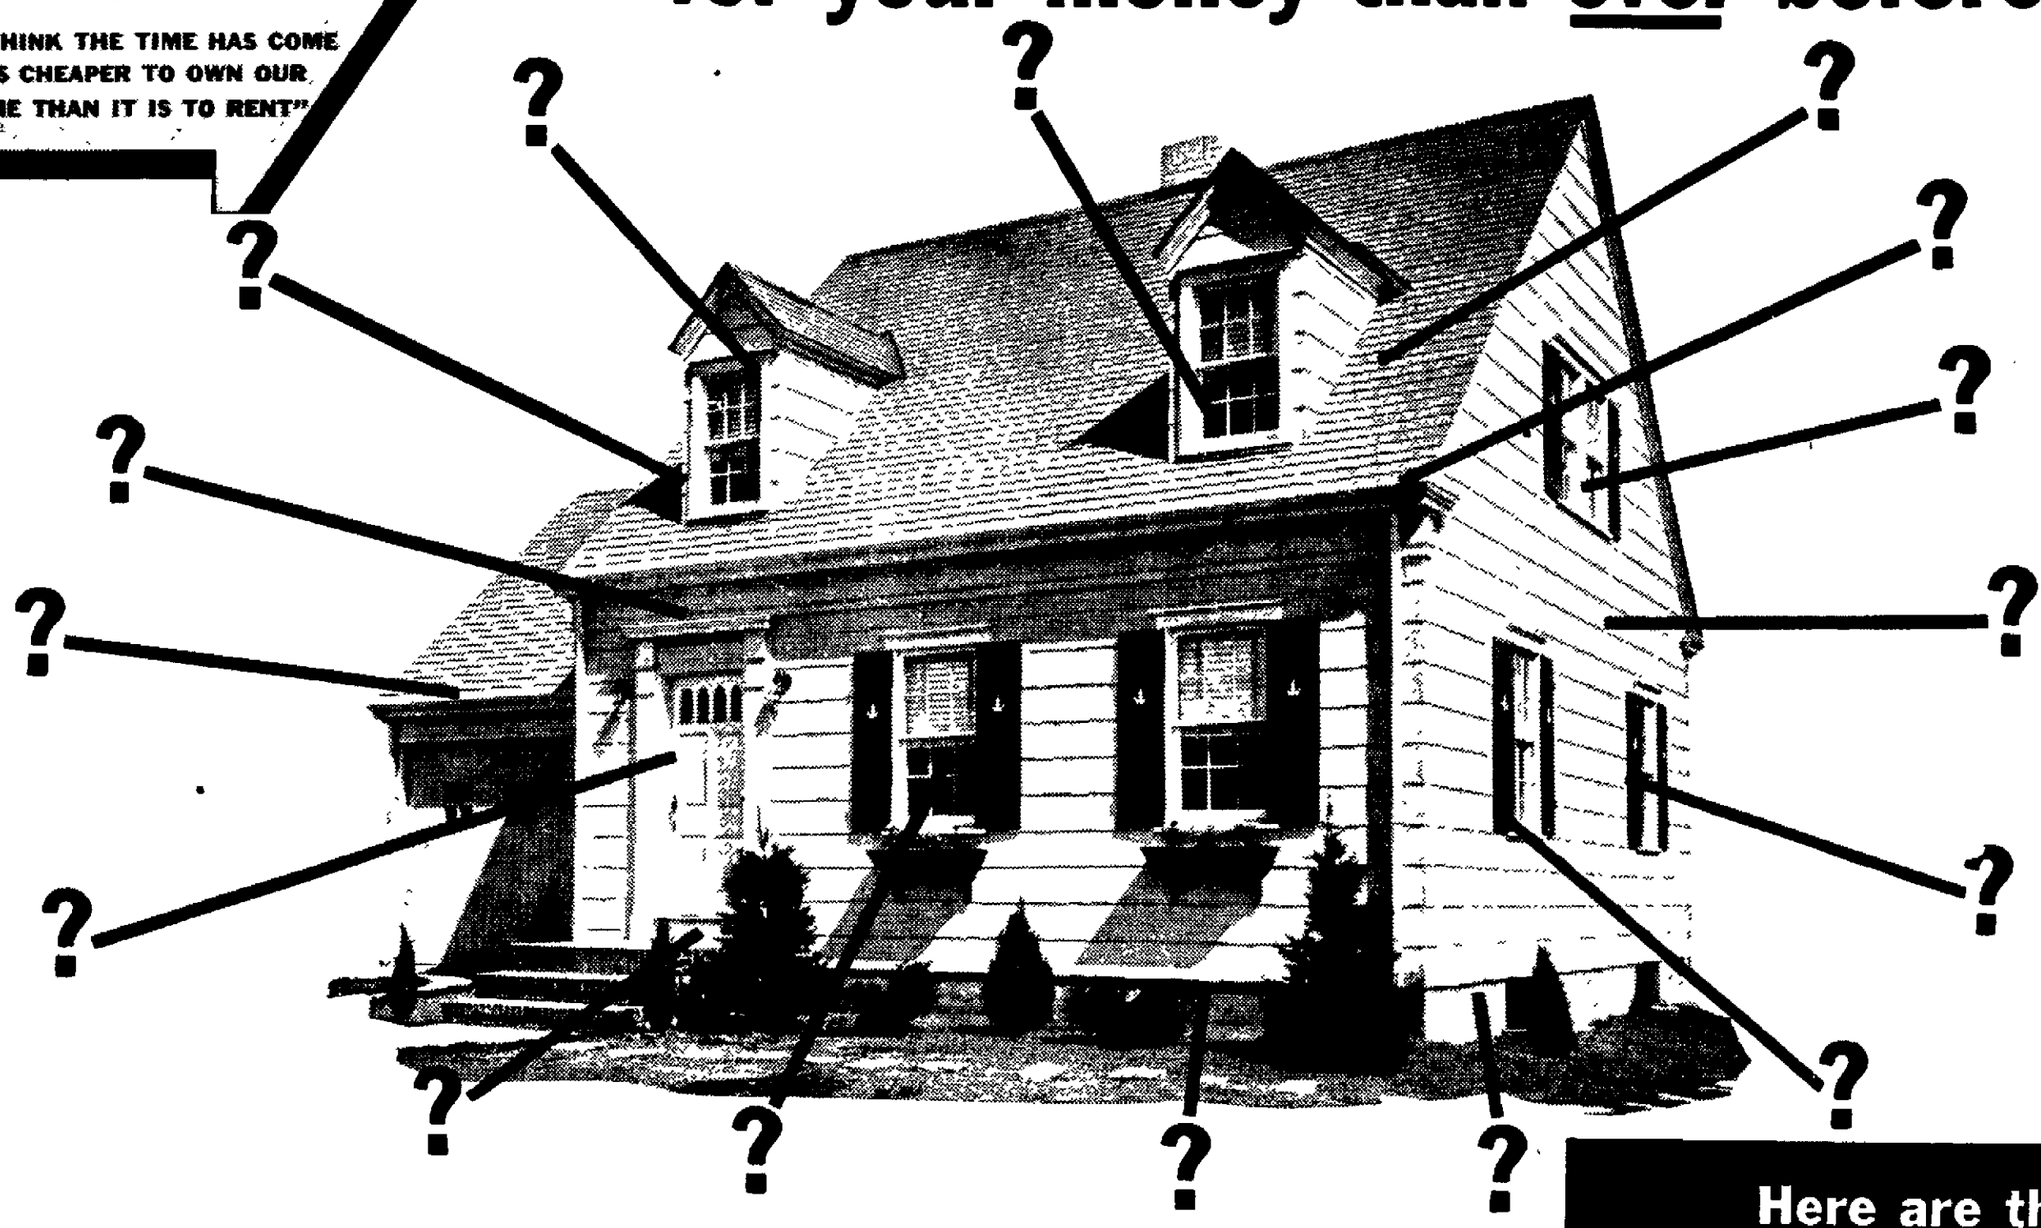
"JOHN, I THINK THE TIME HAS COME WHEN IT'S CHEAPER TO OWN OUR OWN HOME THAN IT IS TO RENT"

Do you know why you get 25% TO 40% MORE HOME for your money than ever before?



Today's Home Offers GREATER VALUE For Less Money ON 16 COUNTS!

THE above illustration with all the little question marks represents a sort of home "quiz" on which, we dare say, very few prospective home owners could score a passing mark.

And how tragic it is that only the failure to understand the true facts of today's home values should stand between thousands of families and their most dearly cherished ambition —home ownership.

The truth is that in 1938 you can buy from 25% to 40% more home—not for the same money, but for less money—than in 1926.

Take, for example, the materials that will go into your new home. Many are entirely new materials, lower cost, more cheaply applied, that simply did not exist in 1926.

In soundness of design, sturdiness of construction, economy of upkeep, efficiency, safety —and in ease of financing—the 1938 home makes the 1926 home seem as obsolete as a car of the pre-streamlined era Here's why.

Your house will be better designed. Great strides have been made by the better architects and builders of the country in designing homes to eliminate waste space and to make them more attractive

Your house will be better built. It must pass Federal Housing Administration inspection for quality specifications, sound principles of construction

Your house will be more comfortable. Insulation, improved heating plants, air conditioning give the modern house comfort undreamed of ten years ago.

Your house will be more economical. Many materials have been developed which have eliminated items of expensive upkeep that were looked upon as a necessary evil of home ownership just a few years ago

Your house will be more efficient. It will have better kitchen planning, with new and improved labor saving devices, built-in fixtures that remove the word drudgery from housekeeping, and better room arrangement that eliminates many of the errors of construction that meant added burdens to the housewife.

Your house will be safer. Fire-resistant insulation and building materials, healthier atmospheric conditions; all help minimize the hazards of the past . . . and with all this—

Your house will be far easier to finance. There never was a time when it was so easy to FINANCE a home. Long-term, low-cost Federal Housing Administration financing makes it possible to pay for a new home out of a modest-size income, with low monthly payments like rent, on a plan that gives you full ownership of the house in 20 years—and at a cost that in many cases is as much as 85% less than former financing costs.

• • •

If you still find it hard to believe that today's home is America's most outstanding value, America's No. 1 bargain, get more complete details and much helpful literature from any of the companies listed below—or from your architect, builder, realtor, lumber or building materials dealer. No obligation, of course.

Here are the 16 REASONS WHY

1 — AS MUCH AS 85% CHEAPER to FINANCE —one long-term mortgage

2 — SMALL MONTHLY PAYMENTS —low interest rates— full ownership in 20 years

3 — BETTER DESIGN charm, beauty, compactness

4 — BETTER CONSTRUCTION BETTER MATERIALS longer lasting—lower cost A-1 Lumber and Paint

5 — LOWER MAINTENANCE and upkeep costs

6 — ADEQUATE WIRING for the present and future

7 — ADDED LIVING QUARTERS basement and attic

8 — MORE EFFICIENT KITCHEN mechanical equipment, convenient arrangement, adequate cabinets

9 — AIR CONDITIONING clean, humidified, circulated air

10 — MORE MODERN PLUMBING extra bathroom

11 — MORE ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT time, labor, money saving —better lighting, too

12 — AUTOMATIC HEAT with concealed radiation

13 — WEATHER-TIGHT WINDOWS AND DOORS save fuel—reduce drafts

14 — NON-CORRODING PIPES long-wearing gutters and down spouts

15 — INSULATION against heat and cold— greater comfort and health— lower fuel bills

16 — FIRE-RESISTANT—PERMANENT ROOF AND SIDEWALLS will never wear out

CROP DOLLARS GIVE FARMERS BETTER HOMES

Ruralite Receives More Now For Money Than During Depression Year of '32.

The money a farmer received for a bushel of wreat this spring bought him from 60 to 70 per cent more building materials than the money he received for the same amount of wheat in the depression year of 1932.

At the same time by putting these materials into a new house he could get more home for his money than ever before in history.

These facts were brought out today by local building groups in their campaign to get the facts on home building costs before the citizens of Mansfield.

The latest figures complied from commodity price records of the government showed the extent to which the farmer could purchase building materials as contrasted with the situation during the depression.

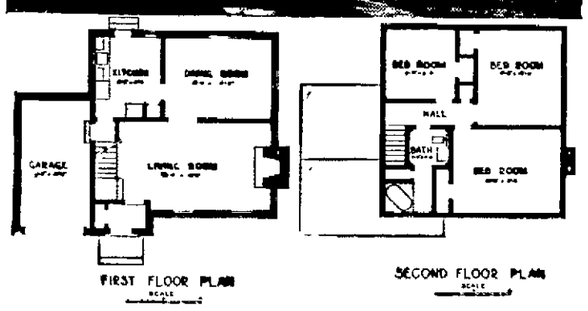
The southern cotton farmer was also in a better position should h e wish to build a home or modernize his present one, according to the study. This year, as compared with 1932, he could buy 13 per cent more in the way of lumber and shingles with the money he received for a bale of cotton.

The hog raiser seems to be in the best position of the entire farming group, for the amount he received for 100 pounds of hog enables him to buy seventy-four per cent more building materials than he could have bought with what he took in from the same amount of hog products in the year 1932

Specifically, the study points out that a bushel of wheat now buys 70 per cent more lumber than in 1932 and lumber is the most important material in building a house, constituting a third of the dollar spent for building products. The same bushel of wheat could buy 75 bricks this spring as compared with 46 bricks in 1932. and this product constitutes about sixteen per cent of the materials used in the typical aggregate of houses built.

The study indicates, moreover, that in addition to buying a greater amount of materials, the farmer receives far greater value in a home than he would have gotten six years ago Practically every bit of house space in the modern home is utilized for living and every detail is planned as never before, whereas old types of design embodied much waste space which ran costs up The modern kitchen, for instance, is designed to save steps and labor Plumbing is superior, automatic heating has eliminated labor and dirt, and home insulation has brought new home comforts and important heating economies.

Spacious New Jersey Home



The above home, situated in Palisades Park, N. J., has six rooms and bath and is two and one-half stories high. An unusually large living room with large fireplace is a feature. The property was appraised by the FHA at $6,500 and financed by an insured mortgage of $5,200 maturing in 20 years. Monthly payments are $34.32.

FARM BUREAU PAYS DIVIDEND

Holders of Preferred Stock Get Checks Totaling $800.

Dividend checks totaling nearly $800 has been distributed today to 120 farmers in the Richland county area who hold preferred stock in the Richland County Farm Bureau Co-operative association.

Vance Clever, manager of the Farm Bureau, said the dividend payment is the 12th paid semi-annually on preferred stock in the organization. About 860 farmers who own common stock will receive their annual dividend Jan. 1, he said

Starting under the present form of organization six years ago, with a total paid stock of $13,500, the Richland county co-operative now has over $40,000 in stock and a net value of $83 199, Clever added.

SHOWS COUNTY BUSINESS GAINS

State Report Cities Increase in Sales Tax Collections.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county for the week ending Aug. 20 were $8,706, a gain of $1,130 over receipts for the first week of August, Secretary of State Clarence H. Kinsley reported today.

Collections continued to lag behind receipts for last August, however, and receipts for the state during the week ending Aug. 20 dropped off $196,148 from figures for the corresponding week of 1937.

Collections for other counties in this area for Aug. 14-20 included Ashland, $4,219; Holmes, $531; Knox, $2,408, and Marion, $4,337.

BEGIN FOOTBALL TICKET DRIVE

Scouts and Other Groups to Sell Books On Senior High Games.

A sale of season tickets for Mansfield high school football games next fall got under way this morning and will continue for a week, according to George Sherman, treasurer of the high school athletic association.

The sale of the $2 books which will provide admisison for all five home games, will be conducted by the Boy Scout troop of the American Legion, Frank Lahm Cadets and Junior and Sophomore Hi-Y clubs.

Games on the Stadium field schedule are with Massillon, Hammond, Ind., Akron West, Akron Kenmore and Columbus East.

SWIM WITHOUT BLOOMERS? SURE

Women Don't Have to Worry now, Ordinances Changed.

CHICAGO—(AP)—It will be perfectly legal for women to go swimming without bloomers and wear hatpins longer than six inches when ordinance changes made by the city council become effective.

Deletions and amendments will make other things legal, too, such as selling liquor in drug stores, showing motion pictures in private homes without a license and parading across bridges in perfect step.

FILLS CRACKS

Before painting a plastered wall which is cracked, the cracks must first be repaired With a stiff brush or whisk broom brush out all loose plaster from the cracks and if the edges are crumbly, these should be trimmed away with a sharp tool. To anchor the patch, dovetail the crack. In other words, have the width of the crack at the opening smaller than the inner part. Mix plaster of Paris with cold water to a thick paste, adding a few drops of vinegar to prevent too rapid hardening and press this mixture into the cracks with a knife. Level off and trowel to a smooth surface.

NAMED TO NAVY DENTAL CORPS

Dr. John Gillig Goes To Capital, Gets Lieutenant Commission.

Dr John D. Gillig, 57 South Mulberry street, has left for Washington, D. C., where he has been named an officer in the dental corps of the United States Navy.

Dr. Gillig is one of 12 recently commissioned Lieutenant, Junior Grade, as the result of examinations held in July. He will remain in Washington for one month and then will be stationed at the naval base at Norfolk, Va.

Dr Gillig had practiced in Mansfield for the past two years, coming here following his graduation from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery. He is married, has one child, and is a brother of Dr. F. W. Gillig.

CHAPTER 34

On her way back to the De Luxe, Noel walked fast. The truth is, she almost ran. But when she was within a few yards of the place, she slowed down and caught her breath. Then she walked in the cafe as if she had merely strolled in casually.

Julian was standing near the register, looking over a paper. He was the only one in the cafe aside from the proprietor. When he saw Noel, he threw down the paper and walked toward her. "So we didn't miss each other, after all? This is great. I'd about given up hope."

Noel said "Hello" a little shakily, realizing that she was still breathing rather too rapidly

Then Julian took her arm and they were going out to his car. The sun was shining again, a little uncertainly perhaps, but quite gaily at that. And there were many hours left yet before it would be night.

Noel stole a glance at Julian's dark face. A wave of happiness swept over her. It was wonderful to be walking here beside him in the sunlight.

But she couldn't help seeing that there was a look of strain on Julian's face. "You look tired," Noel said.

He smiled. "I was—but I'm not now."

They reached the car. Then Julian said, his voice husky. "Rather a hectic morning. An operation at 10—an emergency, and too late, I'm afraid."

* * *

The look on his face went straight to Noel's heart. She made up her mind she must make him forget his work for a little while.

She said, "I'm going to drive, and you're going to sit beside me quietly, and not talk too much. You must try to relax."

"I'd like that," Julian answered. "It will give me a chance to look at you all I want to."

"You'll probably find the scenery more interesting," Noel retorted gaily. "We're going to the river—our river, aren't we?"

Julian nodded. "And I just remember that I forgot our lunch."

"We'll find a hamburger point," she told him with a laugh.

Noel drove through the sleepy Sunday streets without any traffic problems at all. "I never noticed how quiet the city is on Sunday," she said. "Nobody seems in a hurry. People actually take time to be polite. I adore it."

"So do I," Julian said, relaxing against the seat. Then he said abruptly, "You've changed a lot, Noel. I fully expected you to be angry because I disappointed you. And here you are giving me your sweetest smile, and looking like a Botticelli angel—"

"Pul-lease," Noel laughed

"I can't understand how Ruth got things so mixed up," Julian went on thoughtfully. "She knew I'd be in surgery at 10. It seems very strange that she didn't phone you and deliver my full message. It isn't like her at all to forget things like that. She's always so—"

"Yes, I know," Noel began supplying, "she's always so efficient." She gave a laugh and the veiled irony in her voice made Julian look at her in sudden surprise.

"She really is, Noel. This is the first time I've ever known her not to get things exactly right. She was probably in a hurry and didn't realize how important it was to me."

"I'm quite sure she didn't," Noel said with another throaty little laugh.

"You don't actually believe she would do a thing like that on purpose?" Julian asked incredulously He was feeling puzzled by Noel's light banter.

"No, no, of course not!" Noel exclaimed, looking at him with widening eyes and uplifted brows.

* * *

She was thinking that there were times when Julian was deliciously naive. But then, she knew, that even the most brilliant of men were often obtuse when it came to women. She found herself looking at Julian and laughing again at the puzzled expression on his face.

"You women!" Julian exclaimed with mock contempt.

"After all," Noel went on, "it doesn't matter what she did, or why she did it—now. But if you had been there waiting for me, and I hadn't found it out eventually as I did through Laurie," she stopped, and gave another throaty laugh, "well, that would have been different."

"Wasn't it lucky for me that Laurie was there?" Julian queried seriously.

"Lucky for both of us, you mean," Noel said, and speeded up the car.

It was almost 5 o'clock when they reached the place on the river where the rowboat was beached and everything seemed to be waiting for them.

They leaped from the car and ran a race for the oars. Julian reached them first. "Please let me have them," Noel begged.

Julian shook his head. "No I always 'row my own boat'," he said. He brought the cushions and soon had them arranged in one end. "Now you just sit here and relax," he told her.

"And look at you?" she came back

"Well, if you prefer the scenery—?" Julian let the sentence hang in mid-air.

* * *

As soon as Noel was seated among the cushions, he gave the boat a push and stepped lightly in. "Shipmate ahoy! We're off."

Noel sat there watching the play of his brown muscles as he skillfully handled the boat. He had taken off his coat and was wearing a thin polo shirt with the collar open, showing the fine line of his bronzed throat. The expression on his face was one of vast contentment, mingled with something of the glee of a small boy on a holiday. "Great, isn't it?" he asked.

"It's wonderful," Noel said with sincerity.

"I keep asking myself," Julian began, "how much longer it's going to last"

"How much longer is what going to last?" Noel asked, though she felt she understood what he meant.

Julian let the oars rest in the locks for a moment, and looked at her. "How much longer you're going to keep on with this masquerade? If it goes on much longer, I shan't be able to tell which is the real you, and which is the one—you're pretending to be."

"You still refuse to believe I'm in earnest?" Noel let her hand trickle in the water and did not look up.

"A girl like you," Julian began seriously, "does not do what you're doing except from boredom or curiosity. It's too fantastic."

"So you think there couldn't possibly be another reason?" she asked slowly, still not looking at him.

"What other reason could there be?"

"There might be any number and all of them important," she parried Then changed the subject. "Look, the sun is going down. I wish it wouldn't. It seems like a kind friend. Isn't it beautiful shining so faintly on the water?"

"Yes, very, but I still prefer looking at you."

"You wouldn't turn a poor working girl's head, now would you, mister?"

Julian ignored this. Then Noel exclaimed like a happy child. "I do believe there'll be a moon. We'll stay out here and wait for it."

"Listen, child," Julian drawled softly, "when that moon comes up, we'll be home and safe in our chaste little beds."

"Oh, will we?" she taunted. "Who's afraid of a big—yellow moon?"

Then Julian said with his whimsical smile. "I'm not taking any risks on being out here in the moonlight with you. The moon does queer things to people like me."

"You're afraid you might make love to me?" Noel's voice was light and teasing.

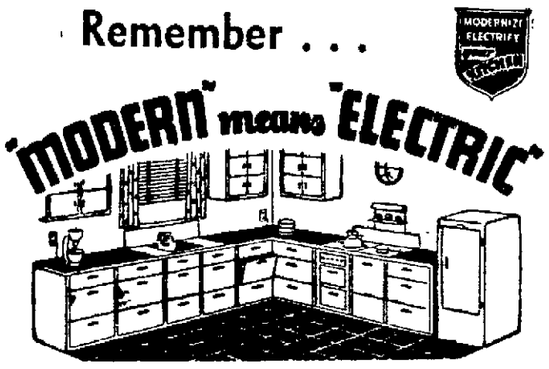
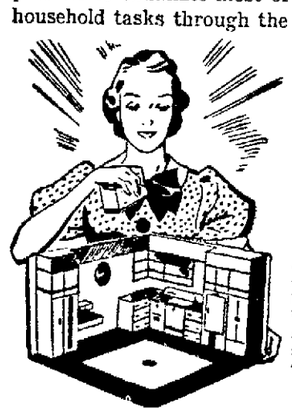
MODERNIZE ELECTRIFY



"MODERN" means "ELECTRIC"

The kitchen is one of the most important rooms in your home. So don't forget it in your plans for a modern home. Recent discoveries and inventions have made it possible to eliminate most of the drudgery of everyday household tasks through the use of electricity. A modern kitchen is clean, odorless and convenient . . . and if you wish, you can buy all the units separately and add them to your kitchen until it is complete.



THIS MINIATURE KITCHEN... will help you plan your kitchen scientifically. It is a model of the beautiful, full-size kitchen shown in Westinghouse magazine advertising. All of the equipment is made to scale in individual pieces, so that they can be rearranged at will.

Housewives Plan Supplies For Winter

By IRENE OBERLIN
Director of Home Service, Ohio Public Service Company.

Housewives all over the country are now in the midst of canning, pickling and preserving, getting ready for the winter's supplies of table delicacies. The following recipes are suggestions for relishes that will be very acceptable during the cold months.

Cucumber Relish.

6 large cucumbers
9 small onions
¾ cup of salt
1 qt. vinegar
2 cups sugar
½ cup mustard seed
2 tablespoons celery seed
1 teaspoon pepper

Peel cucumbers and onions and grind them with food chopper. Add the salt and mix thoroughly. Put all in a cheesecloth bag and let drain over night. Heat to a boiling point the vinegar, sugar and spices. While this is heating pack chopped vegetables in pint jars, then pour the boiling liquid over and seal immediately.

Sweet Piccalili.

1 peck green tomatoes
1 large head of cabbage (about four pounds)
3 green peppers
¾ cup of salt
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 qt. cider vinegar
2 cups sugar

Chop the vegetables in a chopping bowl or put them through coarse blade of food chopper. Save all of the juice. Add the salt to the vegetables and juice, mix well and let stand over night. Drain the next morning, add the remaining ingredients and simmer for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pack in hot sterilized jars and seal while hot. Makes 5 quarts.

Vegetable Relish.

12 small cucumbers
4 quarts green tomatoes
6 green peppers
6 medium onions
1 large head of cabbage
2 quarts vinegar
2 teaspoons each of salt, tumeric, clery seed and mustard seed
2 pounds brown sugar

Chop vegetables coarsely, mix well and let stand over night. In the morning drain well and heat thoroughly in the mixture of vinegar, sugar, salt and spices. Pack in sterilized jars and seal.

One-Dish Meals.

Here's a one-dish meal that will appeal to the housewife who must do her canning and preserving between meals. Select five lamb chops, ½ pound of string beans, ½ pound cabbage, ½ pound each of carrots and onions; 1 tablespoon of chop suey sauce, 2 teaspoons salt.

Brown chops in vapor-seal skillet, add vegetables which have been shredded. Add ⅔ cup of water, sauce and salt. Cover. When steam escapes freely from the steam vent, turn switch off and cook 40 minutes on stored heat. Hard cooked eggs may be served with this, if you like.

Creole Stuffed Peppers.

1 can golden bantam corn; 5 green peppers; 4 medium tomatoes; 1 small onion; 1 tablespoon butter; 6 green olives; salt and pepper to taste.

Prepare the peppers by removing top and seeds. Put in hot water and cook slowly for one-half hour. Brown the onions in the butter, add tomatoes and corn and let cook slowly about 15 minutes. Just before removing from the fire add the chopped olives and salt, stuff the pepers with this, cover with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake in oven until crumbs are browned.

Kitchen Hints

To remove mustard stains from washable fabrics merely wash the stained area in warm water and mild soap suds. Stains may be removed from non-washable fabrics by rubbing them gently as soon as possible with warm glycerine applied with a small sponge or cloth.

Starch slip covers a little when you launder them. That will make them a little more glossy and give them more body. They'll keep clean longer. Never use bluing on colored or flowered slip covers.

Mint gelatin mold topped with salad dressing or mayonnaise makes a tasty accompaniment for lamb, hot or cold. Make a regular mint gelatin, then when it is cool, add some sliced sucumbers, diced celery and minced green peppers or pimientos.

Allow peaches, pears, apricots or plums to ripen at room temperature. Then store them, uncovered in a shallow tray or metal container in the refrigerator. Don't crowd the fruits. That's likely to bruise or soften them, causing quick decay.

Here's a simple way to wash windows. Dip a chamois skin into hot water and wring it quite dry. Rub it over the window quickly. Wait several minutes, then wipe the window with a clean, soft chamois skin.
